Village Board Awards Bids, Hires Officer

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

The Antioch Village Board had a quiet meeting on Monday, May 19, taking care of mostly routine business.

The bid for the planned sewer interceptor was awarded to the low bidder, Car-Min of Gurnee for $174,800.

The board amended village ordinances in order to ban leaf-burning in Antioch. This came as a result of a state-wide regulation banning the burning of leaves.

Interest on real estate taxes will be kept by the village of Antioch rather than going to the county jail fund. Some taxing bodies do give that interest to the jail fund.

Hamlin chaired the Social, Cultural and Humanitarian Committee, which addressed apartheid, the Iran-Iraq war, women's rights, refugees and various other topics.

The College of Saint Benedict, located 75 miles northwest of Minneapolis/St. Paul, is a Benedictine liberal arts college for women. Academic and social programs are completely coordinated with nearby Saint John's University, a Catholic liberal arts college for men. Combined enrollment is about 3,600.

NICC Ready For 1986 Summer Fishing Derby

The Northern Illinois Conservation Club (NICC) is set to begin the 1986 Summer Fishing Derby in the Chain O' Lakes and the Fox River between the Wilmot and McHenry Dams.

More than 500 tagged prize fish will be released into the waters by Friday, May 23. The derby will begin at 12:01 a.m. on Saturday, May 24 and will run through the summer, ending at midnight on Sept. 1.

Coca-Cola and Old Style are the major sponsors, this year, each putting in two $5,000 tagged fish. Johnson Motors is sponsoring a 15 horsepower motor.

In order to participate, fishermen must purchase a registration button at any authorized claiming and registration station. Most area bait shops will be serving as registration stations. Fishing clubs that have one day or weekend fishing tournaments may call the NICC office at (312) 395-6422 to arrange for registration buttons for members.

To present a prize claim, fishermen must bring the live fish, with tag intact, to any bait shop that serves as a claim station. Proof of prior registration and a valid fishing license, if needed, will be required.

For further information, contact the NICC at (312) 395-6422.

Former Antioch Star Is A Hit In Evansville

Former Antioch High School baseball player, Lester Zitkus, is building a reputation for himself as a hitter at Evansville University in Indiana. This comes as a surprise to some because Zitkus was known primarily as a pitcher coming out of Antioch three years ago.

Starting as a pitcher with the Evansville Aces three years ago, Zitkus got a shot in the batting cage and drove balls all over the field. His coach was impressed.

When the season started, he was used as a pinch-hitter more and more frequently. The coach even used him as the designated hitter in a few games.

Finally, Zitkus was moved to right field. He played every day and became the team's leading hitter. He has a .382 batting average to lead the team, has five home runs and 28 runs batted in.

The move was especially auspicious for both Zitkus and his team. His pitching time was limited by a sore arm.

He has had some excellent games. Against Indiana University, he went five for six and batted in three runs. He was four for five with two doubles and a home run against Kentucky.

His coach, Jim Brownlee said that "those were some unbelievable games. He got a couple of chances and hit the ball a ton."

Still, Brownlee may yet want Zitkus to pitch. "He was a good pitcher in high school," the coach said, "We'll see how his arm feels this fall. He may still pitch for us."

Either way, Zitkus is just happy to be helping his team. If he keeps it up, he may be helping himself to a career in the pros.

Millburn Sets Ceremony For Memorial Day Services

Memorial Day Services will be held Monday, May 26 at 2 p.m. at the Millburn Cemetery by the Historic Millburn Community Assn.

The color guard of the Gurnee American Legion will participate. Rev. James Merold, chaplain at St. Therese Hospital, will give a short address. The program will conclude with a walk through the cemetery at which time all veterans' graves will be decorated with flowers. Garden flowers to decorate the veterans' graves may be brought to the cemetery. In the event of rain, the service will be held at the Millburn United Church of Christ, Rte. 45 and Grass Lake Rd.

Sludge Battle Heads For Climax

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

Two permit applications, two denials by the IEPA, one appeal to the pollution control board, and one conditional permit. Those are the numbers in the battle being fought by Illinois and Wisconsin residents to stop Arnold May from accepting sludge at Hillview Farms in Richmond.

Though the fight has gone on since last December, the tentative scheduling of a pollution control board hearing for the appeal on July 13 or 14 may bring the protracted battle to an end.

Atty. Donald Stinespring of Richmond, who has served as legal counsel for the citizens group that has led the effort to deny a permit to Hillview, said that he expects a favorable ruling from the pollution control board. "We have had the unanimous support of the villages of Richmond, Spring Grove, Sunnyside, Genoa City, and Twin Lakes, Wis.," Stinespring said. "We have also had the unanimous support of Burton, Richmond, Randall, and McHenry Twp.; the McHenry County Dept. of Health, and the McHenry County Board."

Stinespring also cited the efforts of Sen. Jack Shaffer and of Atty. Gen. Neil Hartigan's office as critical to the success of the citizen committee's efforts.

May submitted his first application for renewal of the permit on September 25, 1985. That application was denied by the IEPA in December. May then filed a second re-application on January 22, 1986 which was denied on April 22. He has appealed that denial.

Matt Dunn, Asst. Atty. Gen., said that he does not believe the appeal is proper. "The law says that you can appeal or you can re-apply, but you can't do both," Dunn said.

The Attorney General's office filed a 32-page statement on March 12 in opposition to the permit application. These comments cited a long history of violations at Hillview going back to 1971. Atty. Gen. Hartigan said in this statement that Hillview "has not and does not operate the site in compliance with (the) permit; that many of the 14 ground-water monitoring wells required by permit have been dry since January, 1982; that only six of these same fourteen wells have produced a water sample since January, 1984; that nitrates consistently contaminate two of the six wells which have operated at any time since January, 1984; that the soil pH is not closely monitored and maintained at a pH of 6.5; that in 1984 and 85, Hillview applied sludge at higher than agronomic rates; and that two of the seven injection sites are overloaded with manganese (a heavy metal)."

Of particular concern to many area residents are the overloading of nitrates into the soil. Nitrates pose a health hazard to children, pregnant women, and livestock. According to Hartigan's statement, Hillview exceeded the limit of 250 lbs. of available nitrogen per acre at each of five injection sites in 1985. At one of the sites, an incredible 615 lbs. per acre was injected; more than double the limit.

Another concern is the frequent odor problem. Although the IEPA said that much of the odor was caused by the type of sludge that Abbott Laboratories is shipping to the farm, Dale Johnson, Dir. of Civiv Affairs at Abbott, maintains that any odor problem is caused by storage at Hillview. On April 19, Ginger Sikora and Richard Jarr, took pictures of sludge coming to the surface of the ground between the furrows of the farm. They called the McHenry County Health Dept. to confirm the violation.

Equipment Expenditures Remain Same At ACHS

At the regular meeting of the Antioch Community High School Board of Education on Thursday, May 15, budget committee chairman Mike Zeien presented the budget committee's recommendation for the instructional supply budgets and equipment for the 1986-87 school year.

The budgeted amount for equipment was the same as for the past two years and the supply budget was a slight increase over the past year.

Last year the equipment budget was $101,000. It is close to the same figure this year. The supply budget last year was $241,000. This year it is $258,000.

The board approved the Special Education Dist. of Lake County (SEDOL) budget and directed board member Charles Forster to vote for the budget at the June SEDOL meeting.

Business Manager Ken Wierschem informed the board that the high school had received the $2,000 inheritance from the estate of Richard Martin, a member of the class of 1931. The money, as per the request of Martin, will be used for equipment purchases in the fine arts department.

The board also heard that the preliminary results of the test well at Polley Field indicate sufficient volume of water to satisfy the requirements, therefore a second well will not be necessary. Director of Pupil Personnel Services Peter Pekkarinen reported that summer school will begin on June 19 and that applications and a list of course offerings are available in the guidance office.

Athlete Of The Week

Julie Sexton, center, has been selected as the Athlete of the Week at Antioch Community High School for the week ending May 11. Catcher for the girls' softball team, Sexton led the team to a double victory over Fenton. She hit 5 for 5, getting a triple, a home run, and five runs batted in. She also got three walks and stole three bases. To top it off, she picked two opposing runners off base. Her coach, Mike Gordy, presented her with a plaque. Sally Kelly, representing the Bank of Waukegan, Antioch facility, donated a $50 check to the Parent-Teacher Scholarship fund.

Framke Plans To Retire After Rewarding Career

by STEVE PETERSON

For the first time in almost 40 years, Richard Framke will not have to spend a summer worrying about school enrollment, board of education problems, student discipline or other woes a superintendent of a grade school faces daily.

Instead, Framke will be able to enjoy the five-acre lot he bought in Newport Twp., some gardening and his wife's airedale dogs.

After spending 36 years in education, the last 10 as superintendent of Millburn Dist. 24, Framke is calling it a career.

Framke became a teacher in Chicago's suburbs just after the Brown v. Board of Education Supreme Court decision which outlawed segregated schools in the 1950s. Since, he has seen education evolve from the funding drive of the 1960's, the changing trends, all the way to Illinois' reorganization.

"We're a dying breed but there was a group of us after World War II who decided there must be a better way of solving the world's problems than fighting a war. It was idealistic, but we really believed there could be a better way," Framke said.

His successor was named by the Millburn board May 19, and board president Mary Lester said the new superintendent will have some big shoes to fill.

"I'm sure he'll be missed. He was the guiding light in molding the children's future. He'll be difficult to replace," Lester said.

Lester said the loss of Framke's services will be important to her, since Framke has been the only superintendent she has known in her six plus years on the board of education.

Framke said one of the positives he will remember include a change in educational direction in his early years.

Framke can remember those days well—perhaps because his paycheck was $2,200 annually.

"One of the positive I will remember is from the earliest years. With the increase in population brought by the baby boom after World War II, elementary schools became more student-oriented. There was a much broader scope for students," Framke recalled.

The turbulent 1960's refined that direction to Math and Science.

"After the Russians launched Sputnik, America's ego was hurt. We wanted to be there (in space) first and they were. The answer was that they were first because we were not teaching math and science in the schools," Framke said.

At that time, Framke's teaching career was beginning to take shape. He started at schools in Park Ridge and Oak Park - at one time teaching more than one grade at a time.

Framke's Park Ridge school was chosen to be part of a national science-math teaching study.

Republicans Gather To Hear Rumsfeld Speak

by CHARLES JOHNSTON

Over 700 Republicans jammed into the grand ballroom of the Holiday Inn of Mundelein to hear unannounced presidential candidate Donald Rumsfeld give his views on what's good about the country and the party.

Rumsfeld, 53, gave a low-key, intelligent speech that highlighted his sense of humor and common sense approach to the great issues of the day. He explained to the crowd that he is disturbed by a common misconception about what terrorism is.

"Terrorism is not specific acts, it is the result of those acts," he said. "The purpose of terrorism is to terrorize. By killing one person, you can terrorize a million."

Rumsfeld praised President Reagan's attack on Libya. "This was not retaliation and it was not vengeance. It was the beginning of a policy that will let countries that sponsor terrorism know that they will have to pay a price for their actions. Up until now, they have not had to pay a price: their terrorist policies have worked and they have been cheaply won," he remarked.

Asked when he was going to announce his candidacy for president, Rumsfeld said that he expected that people who support him will set up committees sometime around the third quarter of 1987.

Many at the annual dinner were excited over the prospect that Lake County State's Atty. Fred Foreman might get the Republican nomination for Illinois attorney general. Foreman disappointed his supporters by taking himself out of the race on May 19.

The loudest, most sustained applause was for State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis, Republican nominee for comptroller. The beloved state senator wowed the crowd with a feisty, rousing speech.

Collectors Eye Big Stamp Fair

Tens of thousands of stamp collectors from around the world are scheduled to arrive in Chicago during the course of a special 10 day American International Philatelic Exhibition that will run from May 22-June 1.

Among the many distinguished philatelists scheduled to visit the long-awaited international stamp show are Mickey and Minnie Mouse, Pluto and Goofy—well known members of the universally acclaimed cast of Disney cartoon characters.

The stamp show which is being called AMERIPEX '86 will be held at the O'Hare Exposition Convention Center, 5555 N. River Rd., Rosemont, near Chicago.

The four Disney cartoon characters will be on hand to help promote attention to a special Disney postage stamp omnibus program that was orchestrated to salute the Chicago AMERIPEX '86 stamp exhibition.

Organized by the Inter-Governmental Philatelic Corp. (IGPC) of New York and Walt Disney Productions of Burbank, Calif., this omnibus will consist of a unique series of stamps relating to various aspects of stamp collecting and the topic of Americana.

These stamps will be valid for postage in the post offices of Dominica, Grenada, Grenadines, Lesotho and Maldives. They are scheduled for official release on May 22, the opening day of the Chicago AMERIPEX '86 exhibition.

The Commonwealth of Dominica will release a set of four stamps and one souvenir sheet that feature the various Disney cartoon heroes engaged in the popular hobby of philately. The 25 cent stamp, for example, depicts how Mickey Mouse receives help from his pet dog Pluto in attaching hinges to the stamps for inclusion in the stamp album.

Chicago is a great baseball town. The favorite American pastime is the special subject for a set of eight stamps and two souvenir sheets issued by another West Indian nation—Grenada—that feature other popular Disney cartoon characters. They are shown attempting to play a game that appears to be similar to what many Chicagoans now view at either Comiskey Park or Wrigley Field.

Dogs To Compete

Dog fanciers from all over the United States and Canada look forward to the third weekend in June with great excitement and anticipation. This weekend provides competition for amateur and professional dog handlers, breeders, pet owners and everyone who enjoys watching pure-bred dogs at their best.

Almost 5,000 dogs, representing over 120 different breeds, will be competing for the top prizes in all-breed and specialty shows being held throughout the Chicagoland area.

The competition begins Friday, June 13, at 8 a.m., with the Skokie Valley Kennel Club All-Breed Dog Show. This show will be held outdoors at the College of Lake County in Grayslake.

Saturday, June 14, individual breed clubs will be having specialty dog shows at different locations in and around Chicago. The largest of these shows is sponsored by The Great Lakes Terrier Assn. Over 700 entries from 13 terrier breeds will be competing indoors at the Lake County Fairgrounds, Rtes. 45 and 120, Grayslake, beginning at 8 a.m.

The final competition of the weekend will be held on Sunday, June 15, at the 36th annual Chain O'Lakes Kennel Club All-Breed Dog Show. This show will also be held at the Lake County Fairgrounds from 8 a.m. until only one dog remains in the judging as Best In Show.

County Community Concert Membership Going Fast

Record sales of memberships for the Lake County Community Concert Assn.'s 34th season are reported by Mrs. Walter Sorvari, association secretary.

Only several hundred memberships are still available for the 1986-87 concert season which has six concerts scheduled, all on Saturdays at 8 p.m. in West Campus Auditorium of Waukegan High School, 2325 Brookside Ave.

New memberships, as well as renewals, are offered at $22 for adults and $10 for students through high school age. Memberships are always sold on a first-come, first-served basis. Sorvari emphasizes admission is by season membership only. No tickets are ever sold for individual concerts.

In recognition of the diversity of nationalities which make up Lake County's population, Lake County Community Concert Assn. each season salutes a different country through dance and songs.

Launching the coming season on Oct. 25 will be the Slovak State Folk Ensemble, featuring a company of 60 dancers, singers and orchestra.

The Dukes of Dixieland, performing the best music from the heart and soul of New Orleans' French Quarter will appear Nov. 22.

In time for the Christmas holiday season, Broadway Marionettes will perform Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol." Imaginative scenery and costumes lend a magical atmosphere as the life-sized marionettes sing and dance this classic holiday tale. This will occur on Dec. 6.

Returning by popular demand to the West Campus stage will be "Toccatas & Flourishes" on Feb. 28. Richard Morris, organist, and Scott Thornburg, trumpeter, are one of the most popular duos currently performing.

On March 28, Nancy Gustafson, soprano, will appear in recital. She is a winner of the 1982 Metropolitan Opera National Council auditions and has appeared with the San Francisco Opera in a variety of roles in her capacity as an Adler Fellow, a program designed to nurture the finest young operatic talent in the United States.

Closing the season on May 16, 1987, the Roger Wagner Chorale will present "A Night in Vienna," featuring the lilting melodies of Viennese operettas and the Strauss family.

Founded 40 years ago as a 12-member madrigal group, the Roger Wagner Chorale has been the training ground for such notable singers as Marilyn Horne, Carol Neblett, Karen Armstrong and Theodor Upman, all of whom have become stars in the great opera houses of the world.

Sorvari urges those interested to contact her now, since the membership campaign is soon ending. Call her for information at (312) 623-3178 or write her at 914 Muirfield Ave., Waukegan, 60085.

A waiting list will be started for the 1987-88 season at this campaign's conclusion. Gift certificates are also available from her or Zion's radio station WNZ, 2700 Sheridan Rd. or from any of more than 100 membership campaign workers throughout Lake County.

Museum Slates Showing

The Lake County Museum Assn. and Lake County Museum announce the new exhibit at the museum, "My Mother's Trunk." The exhibit by Bernelda Moyer Clem of Gurnee can be viewed until June 2, 1986.

The exhibit contains wonderful selections from Clem's mother's trunk. Her mother, Margaretta Bates Moyer was born March 14, 1879 and died at the age of 87 in 1966. According to Clem, her mother saved everything.

In tribute to her mother, a poem has been written by the exhibitor. It has an interesting and clever ring as it guides viewing selections chosen for display. The items range from a mourning veil, picture album with tin types, books and leather postcards, c. 1900-1910. The postcards were mailed to the deceased in Mattoon, Ill. where she resided before moving to Gurnee in 1951.

The postcards were sewn together with ribbon strips for either a wallhanging or pillowtop.

The museum is located seven and one-half miles west of Mundelein on Rte. 176 in the Lakewood Forest Preserve. The museum is open daily including weekends from 1-4:30 p.m. Admission fees are $1 for adults; 50 cents for students and seniors; preschoolers and museum association members are free. Monday is a free day for all visitors.

'500' Welcome Change From Sordid Politics

by JOHN STEINKE

What separates the United States from the Russian-Commie-Pinkos and the Camel-Jockey-Terrorists? It is the greatest spectacle in racing: the Indianapolis 500-mile World Championship.

Every May, Indy is a happening for hundreds-of-thousands of fans. For four exciting weeks, huge crowds are in a holiday mood. They watch the time trials, cheer the drivers and push against the fence for

In Indiana." It is the one day of the year that every American becomes a Hoosier.

Then the time arrives for the start of this great American classic. The large crowd feels goosebumps when they hear the legendary announcement: "Gentlemen, start your engines!" The shiny pace car is in front of the glorious field of 33 race cars. It paces the snarling pack around the track as they prepare for 500 miles of competition. The crowd rises, and cheers the drivers. The racers wave at the fans. There isn't a dry eye in the emotionally-packed oval. Every driver is a hero. Every fan is proud to be an American.

The speedway official frantically waves the green flag and the pace car leaves the track. The 33 shrieking machines hurl down the straightaway toward the first turn of the first lap on the two-and-a-half mile oval track. It's Middle America's finest hour. From that point, every driver knows that he can finish in only four ways: Winner. Loser. Maimed. Dead. For the racers, the Indianapolis 500 is the ultimate test under the broiling Indiana sun. Which of the 33 drivers can push himself and his sleek racing machine for 500 miles at speeds an hour? They jockey for position, fight the turns, dodge the accidents, pass their competitors and strain to keep their cars under control for 200 laps.

Steinke On Politics

autographs from the last of the American heroes. The people stroll from pit row to Gasoline Alley to the Indy museum to the bathrooms. Finally, they settle down in their campers, and guzzle barrels of Stroh's beer.

Then it's race day at Indy. There are 11 rows of beautiful, sleek, bright race cars on the starting line. Three-hundred-thousand people await the race with growing anticipation. They watch the marching bands as the Goodyear blimp circles overhead. Every racing fan wipes tears from his eyes when Jim Nabors sings, "Back Home Again

'Buckle-Up Week' To Be Held May 22-29

National All-American Buckle-Up Week will be May 22-29, according to Illinois State Police Supt. Laimutis A. Nargelenas.

Nargelenas said, "The All American Buckle-Up" is a major promotional campaign that challenges motorists to lay their excuses aside for one week, and give safety belts and child passenger protection devices a try.

States representing 40 percent of the nation's population are actively participating in this campaign in hopes that life-long habits will be formed.

The "All American Buckle-Up" is one of several traffic safety efforts to be conducted by the Illinois State Police during the Memorial Day weekend period.

Nargelenas said, "Holiday emphasis patrols, staffed by officers normally assigned to administrative duties, will increase the number of troopers on patrol throughout the state."

For the driver, who gets the checkered flag, there is the gold and the glory. He also receives thousands of dollars more in endorsements. There is instant national recognition, and fame. And he is guaranteed a good ride for the next racing season. All the Indy drivers are my heroes. I am always in awe of them. They are doing something I could never do. They are climbing into cars and putting their lives on the line every time. They're flirting with death every second that they're on the track.

Anyway, the entire 1986 Indy race will be televised live for the first time. Like Joe May, I'm going to drink some Stroh's and enjoy the greatest spectacle in racing. Before the Lord "black-flags" me, I just hope that He will permit me to attend one more Indianapolis race. And let me see "the brickyard" for one last time!! Amen.

Schaffer Gets Award

Sen. Jack Schaffer (32nd Dist.) received an award from the Illinois Assn. of County Clerks and Recorders for his efforts on behalf of county government. Those present at the Springfield meeting were: (from left) Rosemary Azzaro, McHenry County clerk; Sen. Jack Schaffer; Phyllis Walters, McHenry County recorder of deeds; and Stanley Kusper, Jr., Cook County clerk and chairman of the Illinois Assn. of County Clerks and Recorders.

Cite Schaffer

Senator Jack Schaffer (R-McHenry County) was cited at the annual meeting of the Illinois Assn. of County Clerks and Recorders for his efforts on behalf of county governments.

Schaffer was a guest of honor at the group's convention in Springfield and received a plaque "in recognition of his outstanding leadership and support of county government."

He has sponsored legislation on behalf of the association to clean up the state's election code and is credited with getting all ballots on computer cards, eliminating hand counting of ballots and speeding up the election process.

"As a former county auditor, I am familiar with many of the problems facing county government and will continue to help out wherever I can to make your work easier," he told the association members.

"In a state as large as Illinois, we must have a strong link between the counties and state government in order to respond to the needs of our citizens," he added.

Schaffer, who serves as Senate Minority Whip, is a member of the Senate Appropriations and Public Health, Welfare and Corrections Committees.

Church Sees Rapid Growth

Attendance at Risen Savior Lutheran Church in Indian Creek, possibly the newest church in the Lakeland area, has gone from 120 in October, to 200 currently.

The church started in its own building. Its parent church, The Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, bought an existing church building when it came on the market last fall. Pastor Phil Esala and family arrived shortly afterwards.

When asked the reason for the popularity of the church, the pastor said that having its own building is one reason for the dramatic growth of the church. Another is that there are no other Missouri Synod Lutheran congregations for about 10 miles. He also replied: "Our own people are happy and excited about our church and so they tell their friends and neighbors. When these people try us, we present them with a friendly and open atmosphere, where together we can grow in our faith..."

Regarding the future, Pastor Esala said he hopes the congregation will continue to grow. For now, the church will have two worship services, and according to the pastor, will add a Wednesday evening service at 7 p.m. for the summer.

Worship services will be at 8 and 10:45 a.m. on Sundays. Bible class for all ages, and Sunday school will be at 10:30 a.m. Risen Savior Lutheran Church is located on Hwy.

45, one-quarter mile east of Butterfield Rd., in Indian Creek, on the southern edge of Vernon Hills.

Municipal League Elects Officers

The Lake County Municipal League, a voluntary association of municipalities from throughout Lake County, has elected its officers and board of directors for the 1986-88 term.

Raymond P. Toft, mayor of Antioch, was elected president of the league. Paul M. Neal, mayor of Libertyville, was elected vice president, while Evelyn Cooper, Lincolnshire's president, will serve as secretary. Rounding out the group of officers is Kenneth McGill, Wauconda president as treasurer and Lake Zurich Mayor Henry J. Paulus, who was elected sergeant-at-arms.

Area officers chosen to serve on the board of directors include James LaBelle, chairman of Lake County Board; Rudolph Magna, Sr., Round Lake mayor; Robert Thompson, North Chicago mayor; Richard A. Welton, Gurnee mayor; N. David Graf, Lake Bluff president; and Edwin M. Shroeder, Grayslake mayor and immediate past president. Also Richard A. Welton, Gurnee mayor, was named chairman of the legislative action committee.

The new officers and board members take office in June.

The league was organized to provide a unified voice on area municipal concerns, and to serve as a forum for discussion on a variety of issues and problems including local-county-state government relations, solid waste disposal, land use and zoning, transportation, and joint exploration of ways to reduce municipal expenses through municipal cooperation.

The league sponsors activities including informative membership meetings and workshops for municipal officials.

One of the aims of the league is to become more fully informed on legislation at the state and county level that may vitally affect its membership and all municipalities of Lake County.

Sludge Battle

Pages 23 and 24 of Atty. Gen. Hartigan's statement cites four false statements in May's permit application. Hartigan's office maintains that no permit should be issued because of the history of repeated violations and false statements at Hillview.

May wrote a letter to Lakeland Newspaper Publisher, Bill Schroeder, complaining that no attempt was made to reach his office for a story that ran May 8. A check of the number that had been listed in a 1984 McHenry phone directory as the business number for May revealed that the number now belongs to a private party. When reached at the number given in his letter, May had no comment.

May also complained in his letter that no one had written that on "April 23, a seven page permit was issued for one year for a continuation of the operation and the upgrading of certain phases." A check of this permit revealed that it allows only for the injection of sludge that is already in storage at Hillview. The upgrading of certain phases is simply a restatement in the permit of how Hillview is to comply with the law and cease violations while injecting remaining sludge.

Both Stinespring and Dunn agreed that if May was interpreting that permit as authorizing him to continue operations for a year, he misunderstood it.

Even under the best of conditions, it appears that residents of the affected area will have to wait until the summer to see their goal accomplished.

Framke Retires

The outgoing Millburn school chief said the math emphasis was somewhat misguided.

"It went away from the mathematics basics and into problem-solving," he said.

Besides the emphasis on math, a growth occurred in the field of libraries and multimedia learning concept.

"In the 1950s we had very few books in classrooms or none. What they would do was give a list of books to parents to check out of libraries. It was a very hit and miss type of information," Framke said.

Education, beginning in the 1950s, began to be taken out of the classroom and into the courtroom. Framke supports the growing case law of rights for students.

"Since the 1950s almost every court case having to do with education has had to do with students rights. Before, students did not have any rights other than to come to school every morning," Framke explained.

Framke said he is opposed to taking control away from the decision-making at the school board level.

"My experience with state and federal government is the farther away you get from the local school boards is the more likely you will spend money and not do an adequate job," he said.

Framke said the position of superintendent has changed over the years - not necessarily for the better.

"Most of the things you have to do as a superintendent - a business manager, lawyer, management expert - do not have anything to do with education. The whole emphasis of the things you do change from what you are trained for," Framke said.

As for the future, Framke would like to see more emphasis placed on education by experience.

"I'd like to see more emphasis and time permitted for hands-on approach. It takes time and money, but perhaps a first-grader could go out and live like a pioneer for a week. Learning has to be from experience, and not just from books," he said.

And Framke has a lot of experiences to reflect on.

Exchange Club Festival

The Exchange Club of Antioch will hold its first annual Exchange Festival on June 21 at St. Peter's Social Center. Planned events include an elegant buffet dinner, continuous entertainment, raffle, auction, and dancing. Planning committee members are, back row, from left: Pres Reckers, Jay Dziki, and Wayne Sobczak. Front row: Bob Ogilvie, Lou Korom, and Bill Brook. Chartered by the national Exchange Club on January 26, 1985, the local club has been actively serving the community under the motto, 'Unity for Service.' Tickets can be obtained from any club member or any of the local Antioch banks. For more information, call (312) 395-1010.

AARP Schedules Bake Sale

The Antioch area chapter 387 of the American Assn. of Retired Persons (AARP) met on May 13.

A delicious catered lunch was served and the nominating committee presented the slate for the upcoming elections.

Bob Ullrich, State Legislative Committee, having returned from the seminar in Elgin, gave a brief synopsis on the bills being considered for seniors.

Evelyn Albert, health chairman, said the club would be starting a health maintenance program and advised everyone to improve their eating habits, exercise daily, and watch for warning signals, in order to prevent something serious from happening.

A bake and craft sale will be held at the next meeting, May 27 at the Antioch Senior Center, 817 Holbek Drive. Coffee will be served.

Girls State

Antioch Community High School has selected Lisa M. Hetrick of Lindenhurst to attend the American Legion Auxiliary's Illini Girls State. The program will be held from June 15 - 22. Hetrick is being sponsored by the Antioch American Legion Auxiliary Unit 748.

Johnson Joins Illinois All-Stars

Daniel R. Johnson, son of Frank and Louise Johnson of Antioch, has been selected to represent the state of Illinois on the Illinois All Star Rugby Team. Johnson was the only individual invited from the northern region for tryouts held at the University of Illinois in Champaign on April 20.

Out of the 70 people trying out, Johnson was one of 20 selected on his speed, agility, toughness, leadership, and knowledge of the game. He will represent the state of Illinois in games that will be played throughout the midwest and southern states.

Antioch Piano Students Participate In Recital

Six Antioch students were among 114,868 nationwide who participated in an annual national piano-playing event. The students are; Sarah Carrillo, Jodi Davis, Aleca Katris, Helen Katris, Jason Koziorowski, and Roxanne Ocieja. They are all pupils of Pamela Pleviak of Antioch.

The annual event was started at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, Tex., in 1929. National headquarters of the piano guild are still maintained in Texas. Rules and regulations are available on request by writing to: Piano Guild, P.O. Box 1807, Austin, Tex., 78767.

The Antioch students successfully auditioned on May 10 at the Waukegan performance center. Each student memorized three pieces and performed for judge Marguerite Hoffman of Wabasha, Minn. Helen Katris earned a perfect score.

All students were awarded certificates and pins from the National Guild of Piano Teachers. Each student also earned membership to the National Fraternity of Student Musicians for one year.

Schedule Student Honors Day

Honors Day at Antioch Community High School is scheduled for May 22, at 2:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

Parents and friends are invited to see students presented awards or otherwise recognized for scholastic achievements, extracurricular and attendance achievement.

Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria following the presentation of awards.

Cultural Day

Students at Emmons School learned about lands throughout the world as each class studied about a different country for cultural day. Second graders Brian Geiger, left, Gordy Persha, center, and Brian Murphy donned the berets they made in class while displaying their version of the French Eiffel Tower.

Memorial Day

It is with a special pride and honor that we pay grateful tribute to those Americans of our armed forces who gave their lives while serving their country. May their heroic deeds never be forgotten.

Mock Interviews Give CLC Students A Head Start

"Job fairs and on-campus recruitment were college placement tools of the 1970's," according to Patricia Kirchherr, director of placement and cooperative education at the College of Lake County, Grayslake.

Under Kirchherr's direction the two-year school has opted to experiment with a new placement tool for the next decade, video-taped mock interviews, a first for the college and most of the nine participating Lake County employers involved.

Mock interviews with employer representatives were held on the Grayslake campus for CLC staff and students earlier this month.

"This experiment is an attempt to establish an ongoing model," Kirchherr said.

It evolved as a response to the 27 two-hour resume workshops held by the college placement office where nearly 100 students had special, more personal questions. In addition, CLC cooperative education students placed with employers produced feedback that indicated more emphasis on communications skills would be helpful, Kirchherr explained.

The format of the mock interviews included a 20-minute practice interview with skilled employer representatives followed by 10 minutes of feedback. Many participants were video-taped to enable them to review what they learned.

Kirchherr cited the benefits of the experience as learning interviewing techniques one-on-one and adapting to the changing job market.

"Most important the students get real feedback that no one else may be able to give them," she said.

"Competition for jobs, even part time positions, is very keen. The average person now has 10 employers in a work career and the average tenure is two and one-half years," the CLC director explained. "CLC students should be prepared to compete for jobs," she said.

Volunteer employer representatives had job titles ranging from president, regional manager, owner, director of personnel, personnel specialist, to administrator.

Employers participating were: Abbott Laboratories, The Career Development Team, Inc., Coleman Cable Systems, Inc., College of Lake County, Consumers Co-op Credit Union, Kelly Services, Inc., Manpower, Inc., National Airline Career Counselors, and Pro-Temps, Inc.

'Selling' Education

Maybe school officials are getting the message. Maybe they are learning that the voting public can't be taken for granted. Maybe they are becoming aware that education is a commodity that has to be sold and resold to the consuming public.

Disgusted about ever increasing taxes and wary of the product being produced by the public schools, voters these days no longer can be expected to support tax increase referenda for vague reasons. They want proof and evidence.

That's why it is encouraging to see leaders of Wauconda Unit School Dist., which has a long history of financial beleaguerments, going to an all-out public relations campaign in preparation for what ultimately will be another request of taxpayers to increase their support of the schools. School officials have embarked on a serious drive to increase community awareness with the idea that a well informed electorate is vital when it comes to dealing with education money problems. Wauconda school leaders should be lauded for this approach.

One of the interesting aspects to Wauconda's new approach is the creation of an independent finance committee which will have the duty of auditing school spending and reporting its findings without preferenda bias. School officials are banking on the fact that voters will see the need and respond affirmatively. After three previous educational tax increase referenda failures, the district really doesn't have anything to lose by being totally candid with the voters.

The district already is operating on a deficit and is facing adoption of a budget for the 1986-87 term nearly $600,000 short of expected revenues.

The fact that the school board has not yet fixed the amount of the tax rate increase nor set a date for a referendum, we believe, is testament of its conviction that "first things first" is the order of the day. With a solid base of public opinion, it can be predicted that Wauconda voters will view more kindly the request for raising taxes. Other school districts have learned this the hard way. The concept is simple, but that doesn't mean it's easy to implement.

Security Gets Low Priority

Whatever else may be said about him, Lake County Sheriff Robert "Mickey" Babcox is not one to allow devotion to duty to interfere with political expediency.

When convicted serial killer Alton Coleman was brought to Lake County to stand trial, one would have expected the sheriff's office to be sensitive to the extraordinary security problems involved in transporting such a notorious criminal.

Ever since a stunned nation watched the killing of Lee Harvey Oswald on national television 23 years ago, professional law enforcement officials have been careful to shroud the transfer of notorious criminals in secrecy. It is a standard, sensible security procedure.

When Sheriff Babcox saw the chance for a good photo opportunity, though, concern for sensible security procedures went out the window. At Coleman's first appearance in a Lake County courtroom, Babcox decided to forego the secure passageway in the courthouse that is designed for the transfer of criminals from the jail. Instead of acting as a responsible law enforcement official, Babcox chose the role of Grand Marshall as he paraded Coleman through the public area of the courthouse.

Forget the fact that someone could have killed Coleman. Forget the fact that a sympathetic family member could have made a violent attempt to set Coleman free. Sheriff Robert "Mickey" Babcox got some great publicity pictures with one of the nation's most notorious murderers. That, apparently, is what counts in an election year.

We can all thank God that no violence occurred during this incredible breach of security. It certainly was not the sheriff's fault that no one was hurt.

Letters To The Editor:

Check Turn Signals

Editor:

Many times I have seen drivers turning off Grand Ave. onto Rte. 45 with their turn signal on approaching Rollins Rd. intersection. The driver on Rollins Rd. is waiting to turn, thinking this person is going to turn onto Rollins and the driver tries to pull out, but the one off Grand continues to go straight ahead.

Accidents are possible when people don't turn off their signals.

Accidents can be prevented if people would check to see if their turn signals are on or off when needed, or even working at all. I'm sure many drivers will agree.

Support Library

Editor:

Where are they now? That's the question we ask when we see Wauconda trying to raise funds for a library. Where are the teachers, the Wauconda steering committee, the Dist. 118 teachers union? These groups rant and rave about raising funds and having numerous tax referendums to finance higher teacher and administration salaries in the name of better education for our children. But there is not a whisper from these groups when it comes to something that is basic and central to everyone's education like the library. The library should be the educational focal point of any community. A

Editor's Viewpoint

Donald Rumsfeld Needs Nickname; Rummy Won't Go

by BILL SCHROEDER

Donald Rumsfeld as an orator galvanized a gathering of the party faithful last Friday night at the annual Lake County Republican Federation at Mundelein Holiday Inn. The former congressman ignited the overflow audience with his prospects for running for the GOP presidential nomination.

Much as I admire Don Rumsfeld, I'm concerned about a burden he carries.

Former secretary of defense, White House chief of staff, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, director of the Cost of Living council and ambassador to NATO, Rumsfeld is known to his friends as Rummy.

Can a man with a nickname like that be elected president?

Donald Rumsfeld has been Rummy Rumsfeld for a long time. That's the kind of tag, deprecating, guttural, irreverent, racy, that guys hang on each other in sports, college fraternities or military service. Off-beat nicknames are for insiders, "tight" buddies, pals who can address each other man-to-man, no holds barred. When you don't qualify as an insider, you don't use an "inside" nickname.

Obviously, Rummy was derived from Rumsfeld's last name, but if you're in a certain age bracket (like me) rummy had some pretty devastating connotations. Back in my teenage and college days, a rummy was the modern equivalent of a jerk or a nerd. Rummies were bumbler and no accounts. Rum-dumbs were even worse off. A "rum head" was a loser who drank too much, as I recall. Any American over 50, I would suspect, has to be a bit uncomfortable with a person called Rummy, even when they know the appellation is off limits except for only the initiated.

How is America going to deal with this problem? It's more our problem than Donald Rumsfeld's because he apparently doesn't mind such a misleading moniker. He's the antithesis of everything rummy stands for. I suggest that we Rumsfeld admirers come up with a new nickname for this rising political star, something appropriate, yet a name that isn't disrespectful and one that doesn't give rise to misleading impressions.

Donald Rumsfeld was a fine collegiate wrestler. How about "Crusher" Rumsfeld. He was a cracking good fighter pilot in the Navy. "Ace" Rumsfeld would be a natural. In private business, the presidential hopeful was chief executive officer of G. D. Searle & Co. What else but "Chief" Rumsfeld? That has a nice carry over for the White House.

We'll gag if the press starts referring to Rumsfeld as Donnie when he starts closing in on the nomination. No more diminutives! Memories of Jimmy Carter still are too vivid!

Let's go to work, Rumsfeld watchers. What'll it be for our emerging hero! Rummy Rumsfeld won't work for us commoners.

Mr. and Mrs. James Mayer

Meyer/Mayer

May Spruce Up Oldest Building

by STEVE PETERSON

The oldest standing building in Gurnee may be in line for a major renovation project.

At the corner of Grand Ave. and Milwaukee Road, "Mother Rudd's" was once used as early as the 1830s.

The building's renovation is part of a proposed "Village Center" concept Gurnee officials have been studying.

"In the 1840s people would come to "Mother Rudd's" to stay when they were waiting for their homes to be built," Gurnee village administrator Bob Trigg said.

Trigg explained present plans call for restoring the inside of the building in the style of its hayday.

The Village of Gurnee bought the land - 3½ acres for $75,000 in 1984.

Trigg said plans call for the Gurnee Historical Society to do the renovation work on the home on a volunteer basis.

Glib Clem, president of the historical society, said the project would be his group's first under taking of its kind.

"It's an important building because it is the oldest in Gurnee," Clem said.

Trigg explained the project may need some money first.

"The inside is in pretty bad shape. We may have to use some money into it first so nobody gets hurt," Trigg said.

The land, just east of the Des Plaines River, was used in the 1850s as a major stage coach stop from McHenry County to Waukegan.

When stage coach traffic decreased and population increased, the building was used as a social center.

The building has also been a single-family home and farm.

Dr. and Mrs. John Kysar of Wilmette worked to restore the building in the 1970s.

Gurnee has hired architect Dan Bleck of Libertyville to devise plans for the building.

To Sponsor May 23 Program

Over 60 million Americans have high blood pressure. Left untreated, the condition can cause heart attack, kidney failure or stroke.

Many people don't really understand what high blood pressure is. They don't recognize the importance of having their blood pressure checked and many who have high blood pressure don't understand why they must follow their medical treatment, especially because most don't feel "sick" or any different.

Victory Health Outreach Center, 121 E. Grand Ave., Lake Villa, will sponsor a free program on hypertension called "Down With High Blood Pressure," May 23, at 10 a.m.

This program, taught by a registered nurse and a registered dietitian, will discuss prevention of hypertension, as well as the causes, symptoms and diet changes for high blood pressure.

There will also be time for questions and the registered nurse will do blood pressure screenings after the program.

To pre-register or for more information call (312) 356-5900.

THINK OF THEM
AS BIG BROTHERS FOR YOUR KIDS.

It's sad.

We can't take it for granted anymore that our children will make it to school, or the store, or the movies, and back.

We can't be sure it's safe for them to play in the park, or the schoolyard, or even the front yard, alone.

Until we can again, until they're finally out of danger, we're turning every Edison employee into family. To give kids in trouble or lost someone to turn to, someone who cares, when there's no police officer close by.

It's not a solution to the problem by any means, but it's a start. A team effort that all of us at Commonwealth Edison take very seriously. Especially the hundreds of crews we have working out on the streets.

Your kids can spot our trucks a long way off. When they see that big E in our logo, or the E-team emblem, they'll know they're among friends.

Please, tell 'em to look for us.

Hamburger Or Steak?

That guy in the tv commercial who spouts a spiel about steak sauce must have had this dish in mind when he tells those at the dinner table: "What is hamburger? It's not ham. It's ground steak."

So it is — if you use ground round steak. It really isn't if you use ground chuck. But it is tastier.

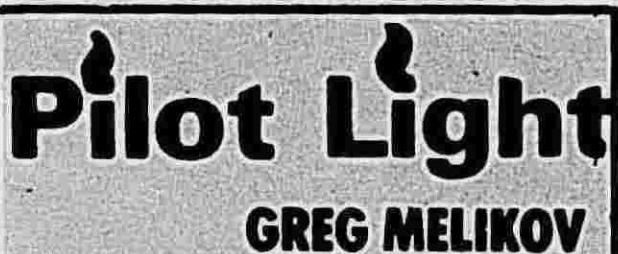

I prefer to have the butcher or meat department person grind once, a small boneless chuck roast. Then I take over in the kitchen.

Salisbury Steak

1 3/4 pounds ground chuck
1 medium onion, grated
1 small green pepper, grated
1 garlic clove, mashed
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 tablespoons chopped chives
1 egg, beaten
Salt, black pepper, paprika and thyme to taste
1 cup crushed corn flakes
5 tablespoons margarine
A dozen mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons cornstarch
3/4 cup milk
3/4 cup water
1 beef bouillon cube

Combine meat, onion, green pepper, garlic, parsley, chives, egg and pepper; mix thoroughly and shape into four oval patties about one-inch thick, and refrigerate about one hour. Season patties with salt, pepper, paprika and thyme and thoroughly dredge in corn flakes. In large skillet, heat three tablespoons margarine; saute mushrooms five minutes. Remove and set aside. Add patties; brown on medium high heat and turn over. Add two tablespoons margarine, brown and slightly flatten patties with spatula. Reduce heat to low; cook patties 15 minutes and remove and set aside. Remove three tablespoons drippings from skillet and discard remainder. Loosen browned corn flake-meat particles; return drippings, add cornstarch and stir until mixture is rich brown and blended. Gradually add milk and water; stir in a little salt and pepper. Raise heat, add bouillon cube and let gravy boil gently several minutes, stirring constantly. Reduce heat to low; return patties and mushrooms. Spoon gravy over meat; cover with lid and simmer about 10 minutes. Serves four.

Famous Cats Entertain With Unique Tricks

by CHARLENE WHITNEY

A now Wauconda resident, George Ney is owner and trainer of five celebrity cats.

The cats were a big "attention-getter" at the Kids All Pet Show on May 17. Children gathered around to see the most famous cats in the country.

The five cats: Tasha, Oscar, Valentine, Madame Tanya, and Miss Hiss attend about 40 cat shows a year and have traveled more than 40,000 miles with Ney. They have performed from coast to coast and border to border, and in Canada.

Tasha has been named the American Veterinary Medicine's Promotion Cat for 1985, and she models for Hallmark greeting cards. Oscar has held his own with TV commercials for Chevrolet. He does these commercials under the name of Nitschke, with former Chicago Bears football star, Dick Butkus.

Tasha and Valentine both have been on Ney's cable TV show, "All About Animals." Valentine is the star of Ney's video training film, "How To Train Cats." Madame Tanya has posed for 9 Lives Cat Food. And Miss Hiss has made several special public relations appearances with Ney.

Besides being in TV commercials and movies, these cats perform tricks for the public, despite the fact that cats are known to be truly unpredictable animals. Ney, 61 years old, is the first person to use trained cats in performances. He believes he may be the only trick cat trainer in the country.

Although most people think of cats as untrainable, those who see Ney's cats in action see things differently. The tricks they do include sitting up, rolling over, jumping through hoops, sitting in a high chair, shaking hands (paws, actually), sitting on their chairs, lying still on their backs, and riding in a baby stroller. There is always a barrel of fun in store when these cats perform.

The famous cats have performed shows at many places. To name a few: the Kacod Cat Club of Decatur's National Championship and House Hold Pet Show, San Francisco Revelers 6th Annual Feline Fantasy Cat Show at the Cow Place, the day care center of Condell Memorial Hospital for senior citizens, and the Adult Health and Recreation Center.

Ney volunteers his services and stages benefits throughout the Chicagoland area. He appears on a new TV show on CBS called Evening Magazine.

Pet-Wise

Ney has moved his famous cats to Wauconda. The cats can be seen at 445 Liberty, in Wauconda, when they are not on the road. Children delight in this visit.

Cat furniture made by Ney can be purchased at his Cat House Originals. He has been doing this for the past 11 years. Call him at (312) 526-CATS.

Warren Closes Slate With Pair Of Victories

Warren Twp. High School's baseball team ended the North Suburban Conference season with a bang, winning its last two NSC games.

The Blue Devils topped Stevenson 5-3 and edged Lake Forest 6-5 to finish the NSC slate 10-8, 11-12 overall.

"We hope we have some momentum. We started out slow but we've played well as of late, finishing fourth in the conference behind Stevenson, Libertyville and Niles North," coach Ron Shelton said.

Warren opened play in the Class AA Grayslake regional May 20 against Antioch, a team Warren has defeated twice in league play.

Tom Thompson was the winning pitcher in both NSC wins, upping his record to 4-5.

In the win over Stevenson May 13, Derek Shelton led the way with two-for-three, two runs scored and two rbi's. Joel Elfering was two-for-three, scoring two times. Joe Pollock was two-for-four at-bats with a pair of runs.

Derek Shelton started the Lake Forest May 15 game with a home run. Elfering was three-for-four and scored three runs in the contest.

Coach Shelton had parise for the play of the outfield, noting Chris Eustace and Jim Ostin both made good throws to nail runners in crucial plays.

Teams Ready For Regional

Five area softball teams will begin post-season play at the Warren Twp. High School regional.

Action gets underway May 22 with quarterfinal round games played at various sites.

Two semi-final round contests will be played at 10 a.m. and 12 noon at Viking Park in Gurnee. The regional final is May 27 at 4:30 p.m. at Viking Park.

North Suburban Conference powerhouse Antioch is the tourney's top seed and will host Zion-Benton (8) in the quarterfinal round. Other quarterfinal round games feature: Grayslake (5) at Waukegan East (4); Waukegan West (7) at Grant (2); and Round Lake (6) at Warren.

The regional winner advances to the Barrington sectional against the New Trier champion.

Q: How do I know what types of shafts are best for my game?

A: I really cannot answer this question without knowing several things about you as an individual, for example, your age, strength, what type of club "feels" best to you, etc. You must talk with a qualified pro in order to be properly fitted with clubs. But his question is important, and what I can do is give you some basic information that you should know before talking with your pro. The flexibility of the shaft will generally be in one of four categories: flexible, regular, stiff, and extra stiff. Flexibility within the shaft will add distance and produce a higher trajectory of the ball, but you will sacrifice accuracy. The stiffer shafts will give slightly shorter distance and a lower trajectory, but will increase your accuracy. Now again, working with your pro you can decide what degree of flexibility is best for your game, but I must add one suggestion. A problem I see so often is that the long irons (2,3 and 4) are often hit so low that the average golfer will reach automatically for a 5 or 7 wood in order to get the ball up. If the wood is really the club you need, then of course you must use it, but in many situations you really need those long irons. So consider going to a greater degree of flexibility in these clubs even if you make no changes in the rest of your clubs.

Mustangs Start Regional Tourney

As the baseball season winds down, the Mundelein High School varsity baseball team began regional tournament play against Grayslake at Grayslake.

The Mustangs, who are now 9-9 in the North Suburban Conference, suffered losses in their last two games against Niles North and Stevenson.

Niles North beat Mundelein 4-0. The Mustang's Eric Regez hit a double during the first inning.

Sequoit Girls Take Title

The Antioch High School softball team took the North Suburban Conference Championship as it gained undisputed first place after edging Zion-Benton, 6-4, and smashing North Chicago, 9-

1. seeded Grant or Warren. Denise Maple was not only the winning pitcher in the Zion game, but she was a two for three at bat and Linda Sexton was two for two with two walks.

In the contest against the Warhawks, the scoring was scattered with many Sequoits doing a lot.

In this one it was Julie Sexton who had the hot bat, going two for three and stealing four bases while doing it.

Rams Wipe Out Skyhawks In Final NWSC Contest

by DAN G. O'SHEA

The Grayslake Rams won two out of three games in Northwest Suburban Conference (NWSC) baseball action to end their regular season with an 8-6 conference record.

The Rams entered regional tournament play at home on May 20 against Mundelein. A victory in that game would take the Rams to Libertyville for a game on Thursday, May 22. The last four teams alive in the tournament will meet in the semi-finals at the Grayslake field on Saturday, May 24. The first game will begin at 10 a.m. and the second at 1:30 p.m. The final game of the tournament will be on Tuesday, May 27.

Grayslake opened last week at Marengo. The Rams first played out the rest of a game that had been suspended earlier in the season. Mike Langer resumed pitching duties for the Rams with the score tied 1-1 in the eighth inning and pitched two innings until Marengo got an unearned run in the 10th to win.

Langer wasn't done for the day, however. He also pitched the entire regular scheduled game, which turned into an 11-inning marathon, and won 4-3. It gave the junior righthander a 1-1 record for his 13-inning performance. Another junior, Greg Dunski, went 2-5 in the second game and scored the winning run.

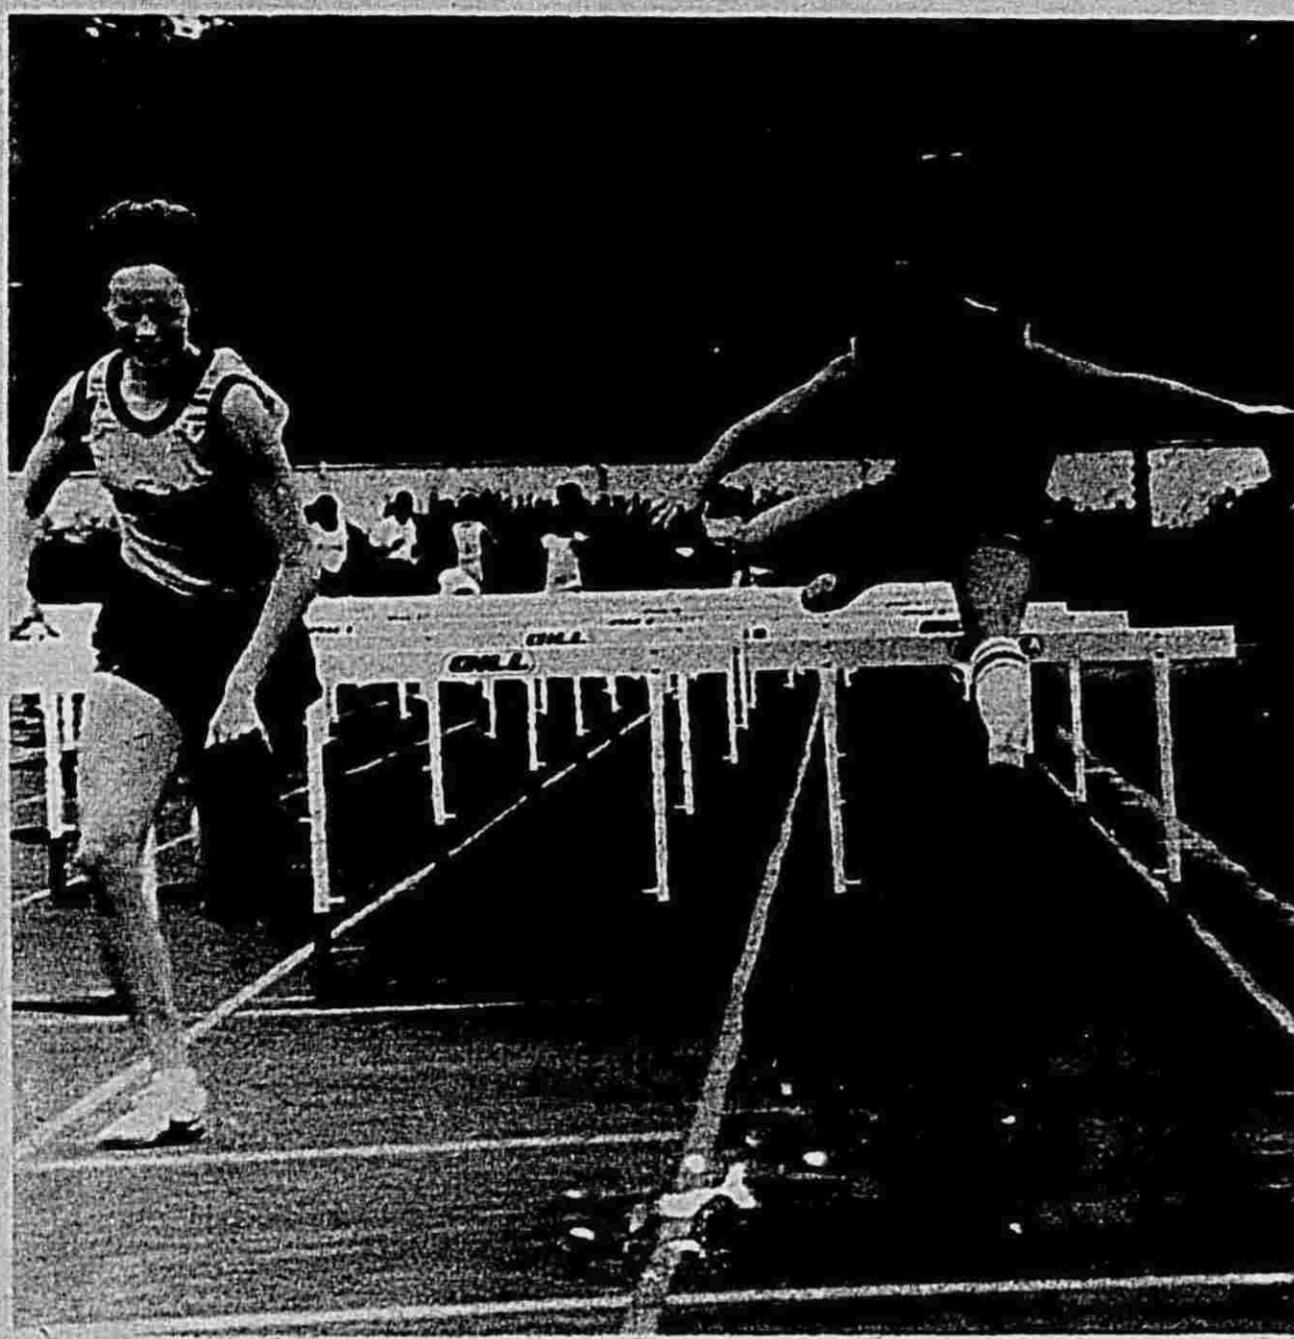

In their last conference game, the Rams shut out Johnsburg 10-0. Senior southpaw Bill Sangbusch pitched a complete game, allowing only two hits and striking out nine. It was his best performance of the season, according to coach Jim Haas.

Russ Hendricks went 3-3 with two runs batted in and Jeff West had two hits, including a home run. Langer had a double and a triple. Tom Castino and Shawn Mauritz also had two hits each.

Coach Sums Up Season

by DAN G. O'SHEA

The Grayslake High School boys' track team went undefeated in the Northwest Suburban Conference this spring, but coach Pat Crowns said the effort given this season was the most important thing.

"This was my best team yet. They were all very coachable kids and they all did the best that they could. That's more important than anything else," said Crowns. "Winning the conference was just the icing on the cake."

The Rams were 7-0 in conference competition going into the conference meet at Grant High May 9, where they scored 110.5 points to take first place. Marengo, Grayslake's toughest competition according to Crowns, posted 103.5 points for second place.

John Lui, a senior, starred at the conference meet, coming in first in both the high and low hurdles as well as the long jump. Junior Carl Wismer finished first in the 3200 and 1600 meter runs; junior John Kavanaugh took first in the 880 and senior George Shaw was first in the shot put. Grayslake's 1600 meter relay, consisting of Lui, Kevin Olson, Kavanaugh and Wismer, came in second.

The Rams also received a second in the long jump from freshman John Paszek. The 3200 and 800 relays placed third. John Tossi, Jamie Russell, Eric Barthule and Kavanaugh ran the 3200, and Olson, Shaw, Tim Conner and John Patzka ran the 800. Paszek also had a third in the triple jump.

Among fourth place finishers were John Linder in the 3200 meter run and the 400 relay with Paszek, Conner, Patzka and Olson. Keith Brandt took sixth in the pole vault and Russel took sixth in the 800.

According to Crowns, he could count on certain members of the team for points in every meet, but it was in areas where he couldn't put all his hopes where the team really came through.

The Round Lake varsity boys' baseball team has concluded a banner year for the school's athletic department by winning the Northwest Suburban Conference championship.

The Panthers defeated the Wauconda Bulldogs May 14 by a score of 4-0 to clinch the title ahead of Grant.

Senior Doug Sparks pitched a one-hitter against the Bulldogs, a single in the first inning.

Round Lake scored three runs in the sixth inning when Brett Igenza knocked in Chuck Banker and Bobby Sanchez with a three-run homer.

The Panthers, 13-1 in conference play, will play the winner of the Carmel-Zion-Benton contest on Thursday, May 22, in the Grayslake Regional.

This fantastic finish by the Panthers completes a superb athletic year for their program. They won the NWSC football title, finished second to Marengo in basketball and now conquered the NWSC baseball title.

Grant Finishes 2nd, But Has 7 Returning Starters

The Grant Bulldogs, perhaps the youngest team in the Northwest Suburban Conference, finished the season as runner-ups to the Round Lake Panthers. The Bulldogs posted an excellent conference record of 11 wins, 3 losses.

The team played in the Waukegan regional against North Chicago on Tuesday, May 20. Results of that game were not available at press time. If the Bulldogs win, they will face Waukegan East on Thursday, May 22.

Although disappointed that the team did not win the conference, baseball coach Fritz Kazlausky was excited about the Bulldogs prospects for next season. "Our entire infield, except for the catcher, will be coming back and our center and right fielders will return," Kazlausky said, "All of our pitchers this year were juniors and we expect to strengthen the team with several maturing sophomores next year."

Certainly, to post such an outstanding record with all but two starters in their junior year, is a tribute to both the coaching and the talent of the Grant High School baseball team. They will be the early favorites to win the conference next year and should have a shot at going into post-season competition as one of the stronger teams.

For now, though, their immediate fortune lies in the Waukegan Regional and the solid pitching of Joe Vocke.

Regional Schedule

Four quarterfinal round games of the Grayslake Class AA regional will be played at various sites May 22.

The regional's top seed, Libertyville, will host the Grayslake-Mundelein winner.

Waukegan West, the tournament's second seed, hosts the Warren-Antioch game and Waukegan East faces the Grant-North Chicago winner. Round Lake will host the Carmel-Zion-Benton victor.

Semi-final round games will be played at GCHS at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. May 24. The regional championship is May 27 at 4:15 p.m.

The regional winner advances to the Barrington sectional.

Mistakes Can Be Corrected

Errors on previously filed tax returns can be corrected by filing an amended return. If you discover that you failed to report some income, failed to claim tax credits or deductions, or erroneously claimed deductions or credits to which you were not entitled, you should file to correct these errors.

However, the IRS noted, it is not necessary to file an amended return to correct addition and subtraction errors. These are automatically corrected by computers at IRS service centers when the returns are processed. It is also not necessary to file an amended return if you discover you failed to submit a required schedule or attachment.

An amended return is filed on Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, and can be used to correct any previously filed Form 1040, 1040A or 1040EZ. Form 1040X must be filed within three years from the date the original return was filed or within two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever is later.

Form 1040X and instructions may be obtained by using the handy order form in the tax forms package or by calling your local IRS office.

BUYING A HOME SATELLITE DISH IS COSTLIER THAN YOU THINK.

Before you spend your hard earned money on a satellite receive dish you should learn the facts.

This year popular premium services like HBO and Cinemax will begin scrambling their signals with highly sophisticated electronic encryption devices.

And this new technique won't be limited to just premium services. Many basic cable channels like ESPN, MTV and CNN have announced their intentions to scramble signals.

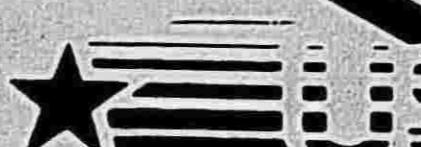

What does this mean for satellite dish owners?

In addition to paying several thousand dollars for the purchase and installation of a receive dish, it will be necessary to spend hundreds of dollars on descrambling equipment plus pay monthly service fees for each channel received.

Inflation Building Behind Low Oil Prices

by GARY S. MEYERS and ROBERT E. STENBECK

Inflation may be hiding under a blanket of low oil prices.

"The signs for inflation are there," said Barry Lind, chairman of Lind-Waldock, the nation's largest discount futures brokerage firm. "The money supply is growing, the U.S. dollar is lower in value, lower interest rates are heating up the demand for goods and services and the world has yet to deal with the burgeoning Third World debt."

FORECAST: Inflation will heat up by the end of the year.

-The Consumer Price Index should rise to an annualized rate of 4.5 percent, up from 1.88 percent seen over the last 12 months.

-While "The Meyers Report" thinks that there is still more room for decline, interest rates in the trading markets are getting close to the bottom.

Huge borrowings ($41 billion) by the U.S. Treasury increased demand for available money, pushing some rates higher. Now that the Treasury auctions are over, the next seven days will tell whether we are experiencing an upward aberration or the beginning of a new trend.

However, in no case is a meaningful rate rise seen for the next six months.

-Interest rates on consumer savings instruments should continue their downward momentum. However, although interest rate averages declined, a significant number of institutions across the U.S. are raising their rates.

-Home mortgage rates will continue to show slight increases for the next 30 days, because of the heavy demand for new home and refinance mortgages. After that the housing market should hit a seasonal slowdown, reducing demand and pulling mortgage interest rates back down.

A recent IRS ruling will reduce the demand for mortgage refinancing. The IRS ruled that the "points" paid for refinancing are no longer deductible during the same year they are paid, but rather over the life of the mortgage.

IN REVIEW: Retail sales rose 0.5 percent in April. This, the largest rise since December, was fueled by sales of cars and building materials.

-Business inventories rose 0.4 percent for the month of March, as sales fell off 1.6 percent. This was due in a large part to the auto industry. However, early May auto sales (up 9.1 percent) show that manufacturers' new 6 percent financing and lower financing incentives have gotten car sales rolling once again.

-Industrial production rose 0.2 percent for the month of April.

Treasury yields, as forecast, rose slightly, but hopefully temporarily.

SAVINGS: Interest rates stabilized this week. The rate decline has slowed to a crawl for the moment. Between 10 percent and 20 percent of lenders surveyed lowered their rates this week, while between 4 percent and 9 percent raised rates.

The national average on six-month certificates dipped to 6.54 percent, as 20.55 percent of institutions polled decreased their rates, 4.11 percent increased rates and 75.34 percent held their rates steady.

The Meyers Report

Economic forecaster Gary S. Meyers has been a lecturer and consultant to major financial institutions, government analysts, real estate developers and daily newspapers throughout the nation for the past 16 years. Readers are invited to submit comments and questions for possible use as subjects for future columns. Write Gary S. Meyers & Associates, Ltd., 20 W. Hubbard, Chicago, IL 60610.

On 30-month certificates of deposit, 13.24 percent of institutions reduced rates, 1.47 percent raised rates and 85.29 percent posted no changes.

On five-year CDs, 10.45 percent lowered rates, 8.95 percent increased rates and 80.60 percent remained unchanged.

LOANS: Across the country, fixed-rate mortgages inched upward for the third week in a row. The average rate for 30-year fixed-rate mortgages gained to 10.08 percent, from last week's 10.05 percent. Only 5.77 percent of lenders lowered their rates, while 26.92 percent raised rates and the remaining 67.31 percent stayed the same. The average on adjustable mortgages dropped to 8.38 percent.

In the nation, the average 48-month new auto loan is at 12.09 percent. Of the lenders polled, 9.62 percent decreased their charges, and the remaining 90.38 percent stayed the same.

In the U.S., home-improvement loan rates are at 13.38 percent, as only 2.78 percent of institutions lowered rates and the rest showed no changes.

It has been announced that John Phillips has been named to head the Claud S. Gordon Company. As the new vice president and general manager, Phillips, formerly assistant general manager, succeeds Raymond Thompson, who has announced his retirement.

Other organizational changes that have been announced include the appointment of Steven Sadler, formerly vice president of finance, who has been named vice president of operations. Sadler replaces

Crappie One Of Most Popular Pan Fish

In most parts of the midwest, they are called Crappie...pronounced Crop-ee. But the farther south these fish live may change the name and sometimes the pronunciation, which may vary from crappie to specks. Crappie are one of America's most popular pan fish and sought by millions. Illinois' Chain of Lakes anglers are no exception. Crappie fishermen may catch other fish such as bluegill, perch, walleye, bass and northern by accident.

Here on Kentucky Lake the early spring crappie run is getting underway. It's a big lake and waters on the west shore offer launching ramps used by local and visitors. Kentucky Lake is famous for its "slabs"...big black and white crappie that run in the one to two pound zone. Bays are speckled with weekend fishermen. We have seen stringers of large crappie that dwarf our northern Illinois catches.

Bass tournaments hold the interest of the outdoor media with some regularity. Little has been done for the crappie anglers. Back in 1983, three Alabama boys realized that the massive crappie interest needed friendly competition. They devised Crappiethon U.S.A., a 30 day approach to fishing with small registration fees and prize lottery from tagged fish. Others run 60 days and some just one day. With the help of manufacturers, registrations, sponsors and $4 entry fees, contestants vie for prizes that total $150,000 in values from $25 to $25,000 and it's all for fun. A $1,000 crappie was caught nearby during our visit.

Fishing big Kentucky Lake offers unlimited possibilities, but not all are productive. For the stranger of casual visitor, it is advisable to seek the service of a guide. Most marinas have them. Now a formal source called Lakeland Guide Service (1-502-362-8124) is available. These guides know the waters and will make the trip more productive, and introduce visitors to local angling techniques.

When we began fishing Kentucky Lake, many years ago, the popular live bait was goldfish. They have totally disappeared from the bait shops in favor of minnows. Guides are currently hung up on using light, unskirted jigs and multi-colored, plastic streamers. Cast and reel in slowly was advised. It does work.

However, catches ran about the same size and numbers as those using minnows. One couple were fishing from their boat with minnows and both got a hit at the same time. According to him, they reeled in their lines and the same one pound crappie had taken both baits and was double hooked...one on his line and the other on hers.

Drying Is The Oldest Way Of Preservation

Question: What are the most nutritional ways of preserving foods?

Answer: Canning, freezing and drying are the most used forms of preserving foods for future use. The oldest and most nutritional form is drying.

The process of eliminating water slowly while maintaining the vitamins, minerals and flavor by using a low heat or no heat method is the most economical and time consuming method of preserving food.

Many, many years ago, before air pollution and chemical insect sprays, food was allowed to air dry until all moisture was eliminated. Then the product was stored in a covered container in a cool dark area until needed. The dried food keeps indefinitely until moisture is reintroduced especially if kept in an air tight container.

Now food may be dried in specially designed containers using a very low heat for uniform drying. Also, by using a screen with air circulation on the bottom and the top of a product in an oven with extremely low heat the process may be done without special equipment.

Food to be dried must be clean (ready to eat) and cut into thin slices and as uniform as possible in order to dry uniformly in the same time period. This process is especially good for low water containing fruit and vegetables.

Meats are much more difficult to dry especially with home methods and not recommended, except with commercial equipment. Dried food is advocated for long term storage and now recommended by many for "disaster" planning.

Freezing food is the next most nutritional form of preserving. Many foods can be frozen without blanching especially for short term freezing. Natural color will often be lost unless additives are used. Fruit and lemon juice often aid in retaining color and flavor while freezing.

Many frozen foods cannot be used in their natural state after freezing, but can be prepared by cooking. The freezing method is the most effective for large quantities of items with a moderate amount of equipment cost. Tomatoes do not freeze well and usually need to be canned or dried.

Canning in glass containers with quick blanching, and without additional salt and sugar can be appropriate especially for some foods. Tomatoes, pickles, jams and jellies usually need to be canned.

Home canning processes are often able to retain more nutritional values than commercial canning procedures. The canning process is time consuming needing continual attention during the process and does not require a considerable amount of equipment.

Salt aids in preserving foods by helping to draw out moisture, therefore, most preservative additives are a form of sodium. The more preservatives listed on the ingredients the higher the salt content.

CLC Holds First Pinning

by VIRGINIA M. KRUEGER

The College of Lake County (CLC) celebrated its first "pinning" ceremony of the medical laboratory technology class.

Dr. John Hunter, president of CLC and the first speaker at the May 17 ceremony held in the Orange Court, said he was proud to be part of this "first" at the college.

Ginger McKinney, freshman, and Terry Kilcullen, sophomore, co-presidents of the MLT Club, each told of their parts in the program. In the last semester of school, these MLT students had been sent to local hospitals for a more "on the job" type of training.

The participating hospitals included the VA Medical Center, Condell Memorial Hospital, American International Hospital and Great Lakes Naval Hospital. Clinical advisors at these hospitals graded the students on their work at the hospital, including an evaluation of attitude, cooperation, etc.

These advisors were Ursula Torgersen, Gina Bardosy, Janice Krebheil and LCDR R. Lindberg.

Jane Leicht, program coordinator, extended words of wisdom and praise to the students and then proceeded to "pin" them. Leicht was assisted by Reme Tisch, MLT instructor and advisor, and Barbara Marello MLT paraprofessional.

Remarks were made by Patrick Cusick, D.V.M. Chairman, MLT Advisory Committee, while Karen Fritsche closed the ceremony and invited students and guests to enjoy refreshments.

Students "pinned" as medical laboratory technicians included: Sandra Boulton, Ronald Kennedy, Lynelle Krueger, Carolyn Nasebandi, Terry Kilcullen, Diane Rimer and Lynn Villa. Angela Gloria and Andrew Levin were unable to attend.

Decorations, refreshments, etc., had been arranged and prepared by the freshman class.

Music was provided by Cindy McKinney.

Barn Dance Season Ends

An old time barn dance will be held Saturday, May 31, at 7:30 p.m., at the park district building, 42 S. Seymour, downtown Grayslake.

This dance concludes the spring series of barn dances, held the last Saturday of the month, presented by the Grayslake Park Dist. A new fall series will start Oct. 25, with a Halloween Hoedown.

The old time dances will be called by "Uncle" Roy Reinholds with live music provided by Ron Brown on fiddle and his wife, Sandy, on guitar. They will play old time tunes that have been danced to by Americans of yesteryear at grange halls, old barns and big city lodges halls and ballrooms.

According to Uncle Roy, barn dancing differs from modern "Mainstream" and "Plus" square dancing in that there is always live music at barn dances and the dances tend to be more traditional.

When needed, the old time dances and figures are "walked through" before dancing. In this way, the newcomer to barn dancing will be able to dance along with the more experienced dancer. Costume is not important in barn dancing. Matching ladies' dresses and men's shirts are not necessary-many women come to the dance wearing jeans.

All the people of Grayslake and surrounding communities are invited to attend these Saturday night barn dances. All ages with or without square dancing experience are welcome. Come to the barn dance and enjoy a folk tradition that people of North America have enjoyed since the founding of the country. The admission is $3.

For more information about barn dancing, call Uncle Roy, (312) 223-2081.

Busy Lifestyles Are Changing Breakfasts

Breakfast has become a neglected, forgotten meal in many American homes. Our morning fare has come to mean grabbing a quick cup of coffee, glass of juice or a donut on our way out the door or at the office. Due to our busy lifestyles, we seem to demand only two things from breakfast—it needs to be quick and it needs to be easy.

But what happened to enjoying it? Has that criterion been put aside for the sake of time?

Not any more! Now breakfast can not only be quick and easy, it can be a delight. According to Ortho's new book, "30-Minute Meals," there are many innovative and delicious meals that you can prepare for yourself, family and guests in no time at all.

Omelets, for example, take just a little longer to prepare than scrambled eggs, but offer a more festive touch. You'll find one basic recipe in the book and a dozen different variations on fillings, from apple roquefort to smoked salmon.

Tasty innovation

Breakfast sandwiches are a nice change from cold cereal and eggs. With some mushrooms, green pepper, onions, zucchini and cheese, you can create a "Broiled Vegetarian" on rye bread that can go with you wrapped (warm) in foil.

For a little different brunch menu, there's a German Puffed

Apple Pancake, popularly referred to as a Dutch Baby. Your family will find them delightful just served warm with lemon and powdered sugar, or each person can choose his own filler such as apples, marmalade or sour cream.

You can make your other meals, too, as quick and easy as breakfast. "30-Minute Meals" explains 50 different dinner menus with photos and recipes for each; fast and elegant desserts for special occasions and new lunch ideas.

There are also many handy tips for organizing your kitchen for efficiency, selecting the equipment you may need, planning a menu and shopping. And to make your dishes and table look more attractive, the book offers tips on garnishes and table settings.

So try some new shortcuts in cooking and enjoy the new renaissance in breakfast.

Breakfast Sandwich Broiled Vegetarian

Saute 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup each diced green or red pepper, onion and zucchini just until softened. Distribute over 4 slices whole grain or rye toast. Top each with 1 slice white cheese and a sliced ripe olive. Broil until cheese melts.

Brunch Idea German Puffed Apple Pancake (Dutch Baby)

Prepare in a heavy 12-inch ovenproof skillet or round baking dish no more than 3 inches deep.

Pancake:
2 tablespoons butter
3 eggs
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup each milk and flour
 $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt

Topping:
2 tablespoons butter
1 pound tart apples, cored and thinly sliced
3 to 4 tablespoons sugar
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon each ground cinnamon and nutmeg

Garnishes:
Powdered sugar and lemon wedges

1. To prepare pancake, melt butter in an ovenproof skillet in 450° oven.

2. In a blender or food processor, mix remaining pancake ingredients until smooth, adding one by one.

3. Pour batter into skillet, return to oven, and bake 15 minutes. As pancake cooks, it will puff and large bubbles may form. Check periodically and pierce bubbles with a fork or toothpick.

4. To prepare topping, melt butter and sauté apples over medium-high heat. Add sugar and spices; stir. Cook until tender-crisp (6 to 8 minutes).

5. When pancake is done, remove from oven and spoon topping into center. Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

6. Slice pancake into wedges and serve at once, garnished with lemon wedges.

Variations

• For apples, substitute any seasonal fresh fruit or a combination. Banana and papaya slices, with lime rather than lemon wedges, are very tasty.

Bulbs Break All Math Rules By Dividing

Multiply by dividing. It breaks all the rules in math, but not in horticulture, especially when you're speaking of bulbs. Bulbs naturally produce more flowering plants year after year, but you'll have even more if you know how to propagate them by division.

Daffodils, crocus, and begonias are all commonly referred to as bulbs, but according to the Ortho book, "All About Bulbs," less than half of the plants called bulbs are "true bulbs." The others are actually "corms," "tubers," "tuberous roots," or "rhizomes."

The daffodil, for example, is a true bulb, whereas the crocus is a corm. The gladiolus is a tuber, the begonia is a tuberous root, and the iris is a rhizome.

These five types of bulbs require different methods of division. The following brief descriptions of the different types of bulbs and guidelines for dividing them have been taken from "All About Bulbs":

True bulbs

A true bulb is a small, fleshy organ (usually oval) that contains a tiny fully formed plant. The scales around this bulb embryo store all the nutrition needed to support the plant during its dormant months underground.

True bulbs, such as the narcissus, multiply by forming "offsets," or "bulblets." These growths are, essentially, small bulbs that have the potential to develop and produce new plants.

By the end of the growing season, a true bulb will have formed bulblets on the lateral buds that emerge from the plant's base or "basal plate." To create new plants, bulblets can be removed from the mother bulb and transplanted.

A depth of about two inches is good for planting bulblets, and the planting should take place in the fall.

A few true bulbs (such as some lilies) form offsets, not beneath the ground, but at the leaf axils (where a leaf meets the stem). These growths are referred to as "bulbils" and they too can be removed and planted to create new plants.

Not all true bulbs propagate by means of bulblets or bulbils. In the case of the tulip, for example, the old bulb simply dies, leaving one or two new bulbs.

Corms

A corm is actually a stem that is modified to store tissue underground. Along the corm are a number of growing points, or "eyes," from which new plants form.

As the corm grows, the old corm dies and a new one is formed alongside it. Some corms, such as the gladiolus, however, form tiny corms, or "cormels," that have the potential to form entire new plants.

The shallower a cormel is planted, the more cormels will form. At the end of the growing season, cormels should be removed and stored in damp peat moss over the winter. In the spring, plant them about two inches deep.

A few cormels will produce a flower in their first year; however, most will need a second year of growth.

Tubers and tuberous roots

Tubers and tuberous roots are similar, both to each other and to corms.

A tuber, like a corm, is an underground storage stem covered by growth buds, or eyes. (It does not, however, have either a basal plate or an outer sheath like the corm.)

To form new growth, some tubers, such as potatoes, diminish in size as the plant grows to give rise to new tubers. Other tubers, such as the ran-culus, increase in size to store new growth for the following year.

Tuberous roots are like tubers except that this storage tissue is actually a root and not a stem. These types of bulbs look much like swollen roots, and, like tubers and corms, tuberous roots are covered by growth buds. Dahlias and begonias are tuberous roots.

The key to dividing tubers and tuberous roots is simply ensuring that the section you cut from the original contains at least one eye. In the spring, when the eyes are swollen and easily seen, cut your tuberous roots into segments. Dust the cut segment with captan (a common fungicide) and store the roots for two days in a warm, dry place. Then plant the segments containing the eyes about two inches deep.

Rhizomes

The fifth type of bulb is the rhizome, known also as "root-stock." Rhizomes are thick storage stems that take the form of horizontal runners just beneath the ground. Along the top of the rhizome are eyes for new plants and the roots develop along the bottom.

An iris is a good example of a rhizome. The new growth of such rhizomes as the iris is referred to simply as an eye; however, some rhizomes, such as lilies of the valley, produce new rootstalks or shoots called "pips."

A note from the school regarding graduation and the 1986-87 school programs: "Due to the disorderly conduct of some students at school sponsored programs, students wishing to attend programs, from this point in time, must be accompanied by (and sit with) their parents or a supervising adult."

The fun fair chairpeople, Judy Fechner and Julie Groh, have reported that the fun fair event held in April made a profit of $470.69.

The eighth grade class will have their final dismissal on Friday, May 23. On that day a final graduation rehearsal will be held with dismissal immediately following the rehearsal (approximately 1:15 p.m.). There will be no bus transportation provided for their early dismissal.

Congratulations to Marilyn Quast for her upcoming graduation from the College of Lake County with a degree in accounting.

Several Grass Lake residents took part in the program. Matt Charts was the "peanut" sitting on the railroad tracks and little Misty Davis was the train. Aaron Marsala played the "bear" in the "Bear Went Off the Mountain." The next part of the program was the song "Three Little Ducks Went Out to Play," with Leah Southgate as duck 1, Christine Charvat as duck 3 and Katie Rogers as the mommy duck and Danny Shaughnessy as the daddy duck. The song "Monkeys Jumping on the Bed" was portrayed by monkey 1, Lindsey Teeters; monkey 2, Doug Pittman; and monkey 3, Eric Hansen. Hunt Club Features Homes With Country Living Construction is expected to begin in the summer on a 621-acre development located near Wadsworth.

Hunt Club Farms has scheduled May 31-June 1 as its grand opening.

The development features a combination of country living with a definite equestrian flavor.

Owned by the real estate firm of Fogelson Company of Chicago, approximately 50 percent of the 120 homesites have been surveyed to accommodate backyard stabling of horses.

The land, bounded by Sand Lake Road on the north and Grand Ave. on the south, was once owned by Douglass Stuart. It was previously settled by Lake County's first pioneers in the 1800s.

"I'm so thrilled and excited about this development," B. J. Spathies, executive vice president and partner of Fogelson Company, said. "This is what the equestrian lifestyle is all about."

The plans for the land were established met criteria set by an agricultural review committee.

Price range for the 120 homesites will be between $79,500 and $124,500.

Teen Dies After Border Drinking

A 19-year-old Buffalo Grove girl, Michelle Margolis, was pronounced dead at 3:45 a.m. on May 19, after the car she was driving went out of control, and smashed into trees and utility poles on Rte. 45, near the intersection of Grass Lake Rd.

Two passengers, Julie Weiss and Kathi Kirchhardt, both 19 and both of Grayslake, were treated for bruises at Condell Hospital in Libertyville.

According to the Lake County Sheriff's Dept., Margolis' vehicle went out of control when it hit the shoulder, crossed the highway, went off the shoulder on the northbound side into another ditch before smashing into trees and utility poles.

Weiss told police that Margolis and Kirchhardt were both in the back seat after the crash. She helped get Kirchhardt out of the car and went for more help at a nearby farmhouse.

According to both passengers the three had been drinking at Hosin's Around on Rte. 83 in Salem, Wis., and left when it closed at 1 a.m.

One of the passengers said that Margolis was driving 60-65 miles on wet pavement (it was raining), when the car went out of control.

An investigation of the time lapse, because it only takes 15 minutes to get to the accident site from the bar and the accident occurred at about 2:50 a.m., showed that Margolis' car had been parked illegally at the Booby Hatch bar next door and had been towed to Kenosha. The girls had to get a ride to Kenosha to pick up the car.

They were headed home, southbound on Rte. 45 when the accident happened.

June 6-9 'Free Fishing Days'

State Rep. Dick Klemm (R-63rd) has urged his constituents to take advantage of "Free Fishing Days," scheduled for June 6-9 throughout the state of Illinois. According to Klemm, during those days fishing will be permitted in all public Illinois waterways

"There's some great fishing in Illinois and 'Free Fishing Days' offer an opportunity for those who haven't fished lately to enjoy this relaxing activity without having to buy a full-year license."

Klemm said the state Dept. of Conservation has also scheduled a number of special activities for children on June 7. The activities, planned from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at William Powers Conservation Area,

Chicago; Rock Cut State Park, Rockford, the Dept. of Transportation, Lake,

Springfield; Frank Holten State Park, East St. Louis; and Evergreen Park, Carbondale; will feature special prizes for all participants, aged 12 and under.

Greenfield Village Makes Summer Fun

Summertime...and the livin' is easy. At least it is in Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Mich.

Sunshine and fun times color new village exhibits and special events, as well as old favorites. A replica of the Wright Flyer; the Village Activities Center; Motor Muster, a festival for 30s, 40s and 50s cars; and Games on the Green are just a few of the treats awaiting summer visitors.

The Wright Cycle Shop now looks as though the famous brothers had momentarily stepped away from work on their flying machine.

Upon leaving the shop, they may catch a glimpse of an antique bike being pedaled toward the village green. There on the grass, children of all ages will enjoy the games 19-century children used to play. Hoop rolling, top throwing, and walking on stilts bring back memories or create first impressions of what was fun in "the olden days."

Visitors can experience the work of the olden days, too, in the Village Activities Center. Spinning on a drop spindle, hand-carding wool, weaving and rug hooking are just a few of the tasks visitors can try.

In addition to the Activities Center, there is a wide variety of things to do in over 50 buildings and exhibits in the village. Rides on the train, and in the antique cars and carriages, include a narrated tour—the carousel is just for fun. Cooking and other domestic demonstrations, working crafts and manufactures, and a one-room school experience portray American life of an earlier time and provide a full day of entertainment.

Not only does Greenfield Village offer all these activities, and more, every summer day, but there is also an array of special weekend events at no additional cost beginning with the June 21 and 22 Muzzleloaders Festival.

The clang and roar of all types of fire engines ring in the Fire Engine Muster, July 26 and 27. Entertaining parades, concerts and bucket brigade contests in which visitors throw the water are also part of the fun.

Greenfield Village's newest special event, Motor Muster, celebrates the cruisin', chrome-clad dream machines of the 30s, 40s and 50s. Aug. 9 and 10 these vehicles parade in this first-ever annual event.

The mysterious hisses, whirrs and rattles of a variety of antique machines that brought us into the modern age signal the Gas & Steam Engine Meet, Aug. 23 and 24.

Dancenter North Offers Big Summer Session

Dancenter North will hold its summer session beginning June 16 running through July 31.

A full range of dance classes for children, teens and adults at all ability levels are offered in ballet, jazz, tap and musical theatre as well as an expanded exercise program, which includes early-bird, late morning and evening classes in ballet-exercise, jazz-exercise, tap-exercise, and Susan's royal work-out.

Also included in the schedule is a kids workout for ages seven-12. Special discounts available when taking two or more exercise classes per week.

Special performance workshops will also be offered during the summer session.

"Ballet Performance Workshop," from June 16-June 27, will meet daily. Open to students in the intermediate through advanced levels, ages eight-16, this workshop will include daily technique classes and a choreographic session where all students will participate in a new ballet created by professional choreographer, Linda McDonald, and culminating in a free performance for family and friends on June 27.

A similar workshop, "Musical Theatre Workshop," under the direction of Mary DePrima, will meet daily. Open to students ages seven-16, this workshop will include vocal and movement classes, instruction in costume creation and scenery, and rehearsals leading up to a free performance for family and friends on July 18.

For more information or to receive a free brochure and class schedule, please call (312) 367-7970. Dancenter North is located at 540 N. Milwaukee Ave., Libertyville (one block south of the train station).

Scanners Becoming Very Popular

A California senior citizen loves to listen to her scanner radio to hear her son, a dispatcher with the local police department. In Wisconsin, a part-time pilot takes a hand-held scanner with him to airshows so that he can monitor the communications between approaching aircraft and the control tower.

These are but two of the millions of Americans who have discovered the exciting world of scanning. Each time you turn on one of these innovative radios, you never know what you may hear.

"People buy scanners for a variety of reasons," says Steve Crum, vice president of marketing for Regency Electronics Inc., manufacturer of Regency brand scanner radios. "For many people, scanning is a hobby. But for paraprofessionals such as volunteer firemen and news reporters, scanners are an important part of their jobs."

The scanner, which was invented in 1968, is a highly sophisticated, yet easy-to-use radio which can monitor as many as 60 different public service band frequencies, including police, fire, aircraft, the Coast Guard, the National Weather Service, and much more. With a scanner radio, a person can be at the scene of a five-alarm fire, or on the deck of a luxurious yacht, without leaving the privacy of their living room.

Although the first scanner came off the production line just 18 years ago, scanning is already one of America's most popular pastimes. Current estimates place one or more scanners in nearly 7 million U.S. households.

As the scanner has grown in popularity, it also has grown in sophistication. One scanner, for example, features a built-in alarm clock and an FM radio so that listeners can wake up to their favorite disc jockey, and then switch to their favorite police or fire dispatcher. Another scanner can monitor frequencies as high as 1.3 GHz, covering 800 MHz communications, aeronautical radionavigational transmissions and more.

Most interested officials view the growing interest in scanners by consumers as an expression of the public's desire to become more involved with and informed about their communities. In addition, law enforcement organizations such as the National Sheriff's Association, encourage citizens to use scanners in conjunction with neighborhood watch crime prevention programs.

Sometimes, their listening efforts pay off...

As a case in point, in Springfield, Ill., a burglar was caught just moments after a bulletin was broadcast over the police radio. An alert citizen heard the bulletin on his scanner, and spotted the suspect's vehicle. He phoned the police and moments later, the burglar was apprehended.

Acrylic Latex Paint Makes Brushes Last

If you find yourself hauling out the paint brushes instead of the golf clubs this spring, you'll want to make sure that the paint you use is going to last for years to come. One way to do that is to paint with new high gloss acrylic latex paint.

Acrylic latex paint has been the people's choice for quite some time. It's easier to apply than oil-based paint, it lasts longer and it makes for easy soap-and-water cleanup. But until now, it wasn't available in high gloss.

With the development of a special acrylic latex base, however, paint manufacturers can now offer consumers the best of both worlds — the toughness and durability of acrylic latex with the beauty of a high gloss.

Tests show the new high gloss paint to be longer lasting than any oil-based product. Unlike oil-based paints, high gloss acrylic latex will not peel, chip, crack, or fade. In fact, the paint will look freshly applied for years.

The outstanding durability of high gloss acrylic latex makes the paint a natural for indoor or outdoor use. Because it holds up well under repeated scrubbing, it is an excellent choice for playrooms, kitchens, bathrooms, corridors and other areas where busy children roam. Even fingerprints and stubborn crayon marks are easily removed from tough acrylic latex.

Outdoors, too, the new high gloss maintains its freshly painted look in spite of exposure to the sun and harsh elements. It will not crack, blister, discolor, or lose its sheen, even years after you put away your paint brushes. As a result, it is ideal for use on shutters, soffits, doors, windows and trim.

But that's only the beginning. With all its convenience and toughness, the new paint is a perfect choice for interior and exterior walls. The rich texture and mirror-like sheen of high gloss paint can be used to create dramatic and beautiful effects around your home.

Easily applied to new or repainted surfaces, high gloss acrylic latex is virtually spatter-free and flows on smoothly and easily, leaving no unsightly roller or brush marks. Paint brushes and accessories wash clean with plain soap and water. And unlike oil-based products which seem to take forever to dry, the new high gloss is dry to the touch in three to four hours and resists marring and sticking around doors and windows.

By using high gloss acrylic latex paint with its easy application and trouble-free cleanup, you'll assure yourself enough extra leisure time to get out the golf clubs as well.

For a free brochure including decorator tips and other useful information on high gloss acrylic latex paint, write to "Bright Ideas," Rohm and Haas Company, Independence Mall West, Philadelphia, PA 19105.

Vacation Travel Can Be Cheap With Shasta

Vacation travel can be expensive. According to the American Automobile Association, a family of two adults and two children vacationing by automobile should plan on spending about $135 per day for meals and lodging.

Not in a Shasta mini motorhome. Meals and lodging are part of the package when a family goes camping, and the Shasta mini motorhome is complete for traveling, camping good times.

Vacation is not limited to the annual two-weeks-with-pay, either, when a Shasta mini is your second home. Long weekends, even day trips, are adventures to enjoy year-long.

A Shasta mini is truly a second home. Available in lengths ranging from 21 to 26 feet, your Shasta provides everything needed for traveling or camping fun and convenience.

At the end of a busy day there is comfortable sleeping for six people. The spacious bath is complete with tub and shower, lavatory, a marine toilet with large holding tank and a 6-gallon fast recovery water heater that provides hot water for showers and clean-up chores.

Your choice of destination is unlimited when you take your second home with you. No motel in the wilderness? Great! That means you can be alone to enjoy the splendor of the mountains or seashore, secure in the knowledge that you have everything you need for good living.

Forget the high cost of traditional lodging and meals. You've got the best there is when you travel in a Shasta mini motorhome.

Recording A Sports Event Can Be Easy

It happens, then it's gone in the blink of an eye. In the fast-moving world of sports photography, the moment you want to capture rushes by in an instant, so you have to be ready.

Although fast-action photography may seem to be the domain of professionals, recording a sports event is easy with the multi-mode 35mm cameras available today. All you need are a few hints, a little practice and a telephoto lens. The results can be highly rewarding.

For most sporting events, like soccer games and track meets, you as the photographer are removed from the action. To get a close-up view of the athlete, you need a lens that brings you close to the players and the game.

Telephoto lenses are made for just this purpose. They enable you to be a part of the action. A zoom telephoto, such as the Pentax 70-210mm, allows you to choose the amount of magnification you need to get the picture you want. Unlike a standard telephoto lens, a zoom provides you with the flexibility to adjust your viewpoint as the players move around the field during the game. With a wide range of focal lengths, it gives you more versatility when shooting a series of quick photos by eliminating the need to stop and change lenses.

When using a zoom lens on your camera, remember to apply the standard rules of good picture taking. Before shooting, take a look through the camera's viewfinder and evaluate everything that will appear in the picture. If you want to photograph the elation of a runner's face as he/she breaks the ribbon at the finish line, zoom in on the runner and the ribbon. Including too much of the crowded stands behind your subject could ruin the essence of your shot.

On the other hand, if the picture is framed too tightly, you may not be able to tell what the athlete is doing. If snapping a spectacular basketball shot, make sure the ball and the hoop appear in the viewfinder along with the athlete.

One word of caution about using a telephoto lens: Just as the lens greatly magnifies the image you see, it also magnifies any camera movement. Thus, it's extra important to steady the camera. Place your elbows against your body and gently squeeze the shutter release button. If possible, use the back of a stadium seat or a railing as a stand for the camera. A tripod or monopod can be helpful in controlling camera movement. A monopod is smaller and less bulky than a tripod and can quickly be moved from one place to another to capture fast-paced sports events.

In almost all sports photography, fast action is the name of the game. The subject you want to record is usually moving quickly, and without the proper shutter speed, you may end up with a blur instead of the game-winning play. To stop the action, use the highest possible shutter speed, and never use a speed that is lower than the focal length of the lens. That means if you are using the highest magnification on a 70-210mm zoom lens, don't use a shutter speed slower than 1/250 of a second.

With a multi-mode camera such as the Pentax Super Program, the shutter-priority automatic mode can simplify your work. Just set the shutter speed you want to use and the camera automatically chooses the correct aperture setting.

While lens length and shutter speed are the two main considerations in sports photography, you can add other features to your camera system for even more flexibility. One convenience, a motorized winder, automatically advances the film after each shot, allowing you to take a fast sequence of pictures without stopping.

With a little practice and the right equipment, action photography can be easy. And whether you are a sports buff or a photography fan, it will add another dimension to your enjoyment.

Adventure, Fun Lures The Vacation Travelers

by SUSAN MONTGOMERY

Tropical beach settings, a visit to see the famed golden arches in San Francisco, or maybe a simple, relaxing weekend in some favorite hideaway spot away from phone calls, kids and all the confusion of everyday living - whatever type of vacation best suits your lifestyle, the two dynamic owners of the Travel Centre in Wauconda are ready to make vacation dreams become reality.

After five years of talking, Nancy Hietter and Terese Lesniauskas finally got down to business and opened a travel agency in Wauconda's business district two months ago. What better way for two veteran travelers to combine a love for adventure with an entrepreneurial spirit?

With the help of a computer hooked up to a network of 60 other Eastern Airlines computer terminals across the country, information about plane fares, hotel accommodations and sightseeing is literally at their fingertips, according to co-owner Nancy Hietter.

"It's like an encyclopaedia," she said.

Adventures In Traveling

Veteran travelers Nancy Hietter (left) and Terese Lesniauskas of The Travel Centre in Wauconda look over travel guides and consider the endless possibilities in planning vacations. Cutting out the detail work is the key to helping provide an efficient and relaxing vacation for their clients, they say.

"You can find out about car rentals, entertainment, and even what the weather is like where you're headed."

Special accommodations can also be arranged for persons with particular needs or handicaps, she added.

Much of the preparation that goes into planning a vacation for their clients, said Hietter's partner Terese Lesniauskas, is to ensure a trouble-free, relaxing trip. "When you get to your destination, you don't want to worry about car rentals, or health department regulations if you're traveling overseas," she said.

But the bottom line in planning a vacation for someone else, she said, is being attuned to clients' interests and lifestyles.

"You have to really listen when they describe their interests," Lesniauskas said. "Each individual has different ideas about travel. At the same time, some people come in thinking they know what they want, only to find something else might be better suited to their lifestyle."

"Everyone who travels brings their own experience," she added. A Palatine resident, Lesniauskas herself is of European background and has traveled extensively. The two years she spent living in Central America in the early years of her marriage has given her a penchant for more exotic travel.

Most individuals who seek help in planning their vacations want to travel in an efficient, economic manner, she said.

"Every client is important," Hietter added. "It's important to remind them about keeping documents current and other details that take time."

Nippersink Offers Fun For The Whole Family

When looking for a vacation spot for the whole family where everyone can do what they like, consider Nippersink Resort.

Located amidst the rolling hills of southern Wisconsin, just a few miles southeast of Lake Geneva and only three miles north of Richmond, Nippersink offers two vacation plans—one for adults and one for children.

The adult plan offers guests two options: 1) A schedule filled with activities, sports and excursions; 2) Spend time relaxing by the pool or taking a leisurely walk around the winding country roads of beautiful Lake Benedict.

Nippersink has an olympic-size swimming pool, an 18-hole PGA-rated golf course, tennis courts and two fresh water lakes for water sports. For indoor relaxation, card and game rooms are available and a beautiful lobby with a panoramic view of the lake.

Evening entertainment for children, ages seven and up, offers amusement in other areas of the resort, and a babysitting service is available.

Nippersink offers a wonderful children and teen program which is led by a special activity staff. After enjoying breakfast with the kids, you can bid them farewell until dinner because they're kept busy all day long.

The younger guests, ages three through six, can attend playschool, mornings and afternoons. They can choose from arts and crafts, nature hikes, treasure hunts, sand castle building and more.

Tweens, aged seven through 12, play Capture the Flag, Nipper Olympics, soccer, or go on hayrides, rollerskating and play bingo for prizes.

There are numerous fun-filled activities for teens—Nipper Bandstand, hayrides, canoe rides on the Fox River, plus many other activities to keep this hard-to-please age group entertained. In addition there are softball, football, volleyball, and basketball games all day long, as well as water sports such as swimming, water-skiing, rowboating and pedal boating. A horseback bus pulls out twice a day and heads for the nearby stables and a ride on the trails.

Thursday nights bring a spectacular combination of guests and staff together for the weekly talent show, while on Friday and Sunday mornings, the staff softball team challenges a guest team. Major league excitement is provided by singing of the National Anthem, colorful cheerleaders and a running play-by-play "broadcast" of the game.

Nippersink Resort is open from early May through early October. During the early and late season, resort facilities are available for special golf outings, conventions, sales seminars, and senior packages.

Family season begins June 8 this year and runs through Labor Day weekend.

Vacations are packaged with all meals included (no charge for seconds!), guest accommodations in the hotel or cottages, activities and entertainment—all in one rate.

Certain dates are priced with special bonus children's rates and discounts for a third adult in the same room.

Compare a complete Nippersink vacation with other area resorts and see what a value Nippersink offers!

Versatility Is The Key To Fishing

Why do some fishermen always catch fish while others strike out? Why do 10% of the anglers catch 90% of the fish?

"In one word, versatility," says John Brett, head of Garcia's fishing pro staff. "It should be the most important word in a fisherman's vocabulary. Learning what versatility means is the key to consistently catching fish."

What does versatility mean and how does it apply to fishing? Simply stated, it is the ability to change to varying conditions and fish behavior. To adjust your fishing style or pattern as quickly as fish change theirs.

Most anglers will learn one fishing technique and rarely try others. They'll stick with it day after day, year after year. And although they will catch fish, that one technique will not consistently catch fish day in and day out.

It is not uncommon for fishing conditions to change from day to day and even during the day. When this happens, fishing the same old way, in the same places simply won't work.

When fish are feeding in the shallows during cloudy days, early mornings or evenings, plastic worms, jig 'n frog or top water baits should be your first choice. But these baits will lose their effectiveness on bright sunny days when the fish move to deeper water or suspend off ledges. The versatile angler will switch to deep running crank baits, jigs and spoons to increase his chances of catching fish.

Fish will also change their feed to the bait that's most abundant and easiest for them to catch. In the spring when shad are small, a 4" crank bait won't be effective. But after a heavy rain with water run-off, worms and jigs should be effective. The versatile angler will be able to fish all baits in an effort to match the bait they're feeding on.

"To be effective, fishermen must be able to use different equipment," say Garcia experts.

"One rod and reel combination simply won't be able to handle the different conditions you'll find during a day's fishing."

Surveys show that most fishermen take 3 or 4 rods and reels when they go fishing. But more often than not, they're all the same type. The most successful anglers, however, carry baitcasting, spinning and even spincasting outfits so they can adapt to different conditions.

A baitcasting reel with 17 lb. test line and heavy action rod will work well in heavy cover but lose its effectiveness in clear, shallow water. Instead, a spinning reel loaded with a 6 to 8 lb. test line will work best.

The same rule applies to baits. Baitcasting gear is excellent for worms, spinnerbaits, jigs and medium to heavy crankbaits, but simply won't handle light crank baits and small jigs. Spinning reels and spincast reels will handle them best.

Another important consideration is rods. Because they're quick, graphite rods are excellent choices for worms or jigs. But a fiberglass or composite rod is a better choice for crank baits because they react slower.

Garcia experts recommend that you bring different equipment. Two baitcasting outfits, one spinning outfit and one spincasting outfit with different pound test line and different action rods will handle most conditions.

But most important, remember, if you're not catching fish, change. Do something different. A different bait. A different water depth. A different type of structure. Be versatile, it's usually the difference between catching and not catching.

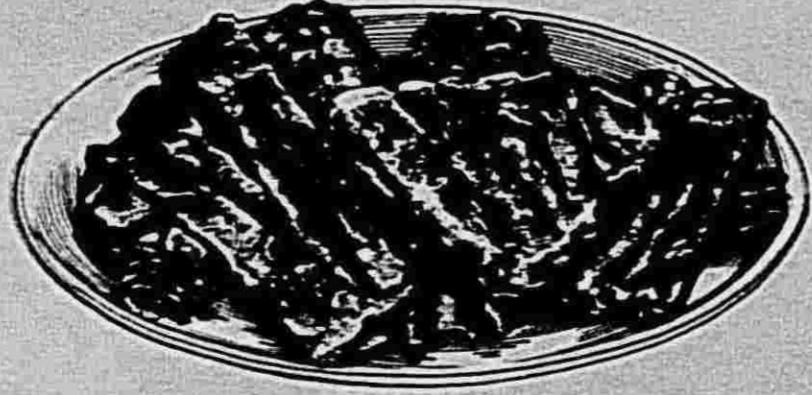

Versatility The Key

Versatility is the key to catching fish, says one fishing expert. According to John Brett, head of Garcia's fishing pro staff, to catch trophy sized bass like this angler, you must be able to adjust your fishing style or pattern as quickly as fish change theirs, using different techniques, baits, rods and reels.

Many Reasons Why Boating Is Great

It's hard to say if a study has ever been done on why the appeal of boating is so great. Asking those involved in the recreational pursuit you would certainly get many varied responses and probably more than the numerous range of activities boating encompasses.

One boating authority feels the appeal, whether it be fishing, cruising, skiing, camping or just sitting back and enjoying the sun, really adds up to it being an investment in the boat owner and his family's enrichment of life.

Whatever the appeal, the last couple of years has seen more and more people getting into the sport.

In 1984 there were nearly 14 million recreational boats across the nation (up a million over two years ago) with over 63 million people (up two million) using them more than once or twice.

In fact in one segment almost twice as many I/O (inboard/outboard) boats were sold during 1984 as in 1982. The figures showed 55,000 units sold in 1982 to the upswing of 108,000 in 1984.

This has led one of the leading manufacturers of luxury pleasure boats, Sea Ray Boats, to add an entry-level line to its already popular model makeup of runabouts, cruisers and sport yachts.

Two years ago, Sea Ray introduced the Seville, a "budget priced" boat targeted toward the first time boat buyer. What Sea Ray found, since the Seville's introduction was a new market similar to that when it started 25 years ago.

"Essentially, it's a whole new generation of buyers wanting to get out and do things," stated John Keim, Sea Ray Vice President of Marketing.

He also suspects that because Americans are more of a mobile society, more transplanted families are doing things together as a family unit than with friends and neighbors.

Boating is one way the family can tie several different activities together such as fishing, skiing, skin diving, camping and cruising," he continued. "There's been more media exposure as well, with boating being targeted toward the family unit with a focus on fun and affordability.

"In the last several years that emphasis has been directed toward first time buyers of boats in the under $10,000 range. Yet in the late 70's, many major builders were keying on the $20,000 and up spenders," Keim added.

"With the cost of housing going up, many people, especially the first time home buyers, are opting toward renting a house or apartment because they don't have enough for a down-payment or face other start-up problems." "But," he adds, "these same buyers want to put their money into something that will give them a return on their investment ... an investment in the enrichment of their lives and for many, boating is the answer."

Since its introduction, the Seville line of three original models has been expanded twice to fill the boat owners wide spectrum of uses in seven different sizes and styles from a 16½-foot open runabout to a 21-foot cuddy cruiser.

But the Sevilles aren't the only type of boats that are selling big. Sea Ray, as many other boat manufacturers are also finding out, is seeing a big increase in the trailerable cruisers in the 20- to 27-foot range because the automotive industry is coming back with more tow vehicles.

"This segment of the boating public is getting out and exploring new areas while trailering their cabin cruisers instead of a camper or trailer," said Keim. "The boater has that extra advantage of being able to live aboard his trailerable boat plus using it on lakes and rivers."

Family Sport

Boating is a sport the entire family can enjoy: One of the very basic appeals of boating is that it is a family sport. It's one that everyone in the family, regardless of age, can both participate in and enjoy equally.

Twin Lakes Recreation Sells Year-Round Fun

by GLORIA DAVIS

Twin Lakes Recreation, located right in front of the downtown beach in Twin Lakes, is a name that tells just what the business is all about.

Everything to make recreation fun on either of the Twin Lakes, Lake Elizabeth or Lake Mary, is available at that downtown address.

Fourteen years ago Bob Burmeister and his brother Ken took a flyer and opened the recreation supply center in the heart of Twin Lakes.

Now Bob is running the very successful business that means year around outdoor fun, whether it's selling snowmobiles in the winter or marine equipment in the summer.

Everyone at the recreation center is kept busy all winter long supplying area outdoorsmen with Yamaha Snowmobiles, servicing those machines, and supplying the riders with everything they need in the way of snowmobile clothing and accessories.

In the summer, the quiet rural town of Twin Lakes, population around 5,000, turns into a busy tourist spot with over $10,000 people making use of the area and what it has to offer.

The recreation center sells Riviera Pontoon boats, paddle boats, fishing boats and gear and Mariner outboards.

For those who only use this equipment on a short-time basis, the center will rent it out.

Bait and tackle are also on the sales list since fishing the Twin Lakes is a popular sport for almost six months out of the year.

More and more pontoon boats are appearing on the lakes because it is a way to relax in the company of family and friends, float along, enjoy the lake breezes and get a glorious suntan.

Pontoon boats are as easy to drive as a car and allow up to 10 people to spend a lazy summer day, partying, fishing or just enjoying the lake and its beautiful surroundings.

B.L. Plenty's Offers Everyones Favorites

Although B.L. Plenty's, at the junction of Rtes. 120 and 83 in Grayslake, has changed hands, the commitment to quality food and service at moderate prices remains the same.

A popular spot for business lunches, B.L. Plenty's features a luncheon buffet Tuesday through Friday that includes 4 hot entrees and a salad bar.

Other popular special features include the Sunday Brunch, served from 11 a.m. till 2 p.m. every Sunday. The brunch includes 10 piping hot, fresh entrees, salads and a pastry table. The charge for adults is $5.95 and for children, $4.95. Perhaps the most popular program is the famous Friday night seafood and rib buffet. Served from 4:30 to 10 p.m. every Friday, the seafood and rib buffet includes a choice selection of freshly prepared seafood entrees and tender, juicy, barbecued ribs. For those who come before 6 p.m., the price is $4.95. Otherwise, $5.95 is charged.

Sunday through Thursday are special for diners who enjoy both good food and good bargains. B.L. Plenty's offers evening dinner specials on these nights for only $4.95.

Of course, besides all the specials, the restaurant offers a selection of ribs, giant steaks, prime rib, and fresh seafood on the regular menu.

Whether you are looking for a comfortable place to stop after a full day's recreation or just want a good meal at a good price, B.L. Plenty's is always certain to please.

Low Gas Prices Mean Boom For RV Industry

Safety's First When Planning Vacation

With the price of gasoline plummeting to record lows not seen in 10 years, more and more people across the United States are beginning to plan the family vacation and are mapping out their travel routes.

In the first quarter of 1986, the American Assn. of Automobiles (AAA) has reported substantial increases in gasoline sales and consumption across the country. They have also reported an increase in requests for their services, indicating an increase in the number of highway travelers.

With these early indicators, a great number of vacationers are predicted to hit the nation's highways and byways this summer. Travel abroad is not attractive as it used to be, and with lower gasoline prices and fairly stable economies across the country, people are finding more places to go in the United States.

Of that number, nearly one-third of these travelers will be involved in some type of highway emergency, many of which could be avoided if the proper safety precautions and vehicle maintenance had been checked.

RV Industry

camping equipment for the summer traveler. Motor homes, pull down campers along with other types of camping vehicles and a full service shop are part of what Burlington Camping & Travel offer.

Weege, who has been in the recreation travel business for 23 years, has seen a minor industry in the 1960s grow to an industry with an important economic impact.

"I've seen all the changes. From when the recreational business was not much of

The key to a trouble-free vacation begins with preparing your car for long-distance travel. A thorough inspection and tune-up of your car, although costly and seemingly unnecessary, may save you the money planned for Disneyland by sparing you serious car trouble.

Check the car's air filter, oil level, coolant, air conditioner and windshield washer fluid yourself. You should also check the tires for wear (including the spare) and make sure they have the correct air pressure before leaving town.

It's also a good idea to have several safety items handy in the glove compartment or trunk. You should have a flashlight and extra batteries, a jug of water, and some high-protein food on hand. Even in the summer, a sleeping bag or warm blanket could come in handy, as evening temperatures drop in mountainous areas.

A small first aid kit is also a good item to have, just in case. And don't forget a map with details of your travel route and ultimate destination.

The most important item you'll need is some way to call for help in case of emergency, such as a citizens band radio. Recent market research studies have indicated that the primary use of CB radio today is in the case of highway emergency. This new application of CB's has shifted dramatically since the "good buddy" days of the mid-70's.

Some CB radios are designed specifically for emergency situations. Examples are the completely portable Ready/Rescue II and easily-installed System EZ line of radios designed by Midland International.

Once you've completed the task of inspecting and loading the car for travel, you're ready to leave for your long-awaited destination. As you travel, remember to make several periodic stops along the way at service stations and rest stops. Don't wait for your gas tank to read empty. Stop regularly and check all fluid levels and tire pressure during these stops. Frequent rest stops will prevent exhaustion and keep the kids smiling along the way.

After days of driving and a few fights between the kids, you finally reach your destination. You're finally ready for the fun to begin. Whether your trip takes you to a campground, ranch cottage in the mountains, a lakefront condominium or a resort hotel near the ocean, you'll probably enjoy some sort of outdoor activity while on vacation. Unfortunately, minor accidents during outdoor vacations are almost as common as having car trouble somewhere along the way.

The best way to prevent accidents is to be careful and not take any unnecessary chances. This includes not going anywhere alone. The "buddy system" seems basic, but it's a must for safety.

Whenever you're going to be away from your car for any length of time, you should carry a small backpack filled with items such as a compact first aid kit, compass or map of the area, a canteen of water and a pocket flashlight with spare batteries.

A good rule of thumb is to also carry a portable CB radio (a "walkie-talkie") to call for help in case of an emergency. When shopping for a walkie-talkie, make sure it has ample power and sufficient channel access so your signal can be heard. Look for the new CB models, many of which are designed with special convenience features, such as compact size, carrying cases and cases that can clip to your belt or pocket. Prices for the portable models range from $80 to $150.

Now you're aware of how to prepare your car and yourself for the family vacation. But what do you do in the event of a real emergency?

The most important thing to remember is to stay calm. You need to keep a clear head and think rationally. If the emergency is car trouble, pull the car off the road and out of the line of traffic. Stay close to the car. Especially since it's summer, find a shady place nearby to avoid heat exhaustion. Try to conserve fuel by not running the car for air conditioning purposes.

If you have a rescue-oriented CB radio, tune to Channel 9, the channel most monitored by police and highway patrol units. Many models on the market today have a switch that instantly accesses Channel 9. Once you're receiving Channel 9, make your call for help. With a CB, rescue is just moments away.

Old West Alive At Kansas Museum

The Old West comes to life at Boot Hill Museum, a village museum located on the original site of Boot Hill Cemetery in downtown Dodge City, Kansas.

The city in southwestern Kansas was the home of such famous law officers as Wyatt Earp, Bat Masterson, Bill Tilghman and Charles Bassett. It was here that they earned their reputations as "fast guns."

But this is not the only story that is told at the museum. Visitors are introduced to the museum and Dodge City's history in an 11-minute multi-media presentation, "Dodge City: The Town and the Legend," in the Visitor Center.

Dodge City began in 1872 as a supply center for buffalo hunters who were in the process of eradicating the herds of buffalo that once numbered in the millions.

The story of this era is told in the exhibit "Dodge City: The Early Years." The exhibit also includes a portion of the original Boot Hill Cemetery (1872-79) upon which the museum has been built and from which it takes its name.

Here also is the story of the Santa Fe Trail trade, the building of the Santa Fe Railroad across Kansas, the life of the American cowboy and a reconstruction of a sod house, the home of many plains settlers.

Another exhibit, entitled "Cattle, Wheat & Storekeepers," documents Dodge City's economic growth during the cattle drive era which began in 1876.

During the 10-year span of the cattle drives, more than 10 million Texas longhorns were brought up the Chisholm and Western Trails to the Santa Fe Railway's loading pens in Dodge City.

Wheat came to Kansas in 1874 with the introduction of Turkey Red, a hard winter wheat, by a group of German Mennonites from Russia. Cattle and wheat today dominate Dodge City's economy, as visitors can see from the numbers of grain elevators and cattle feedlots that dot the countryside.

The atmosphere of Old Dodge City is recreated in exhibits of the business life of the town. The Bank of Dodge City, the town's first banking establishment, is reconstructed at the museum, as well as the home of Squirrel Tooth Alice, an early "lady of the night," or "soiled dove," as they were called in Dodge City.

Front Street is a reconstruction of two blocks of the original (1878) business district of Dodge City. Here may be found a gunsmith shop in Zimmermann's Hardware, the Rice Brothers' saddle shop, and Dr. T.L. McCarty's City Drug Store, which is stocked with drugs, patent medicines and cosmetics which could be found in this store in 1880.

The Saratoga Saloon next door is a reconstruction of an establishment that was owned by C.M. Beeson and W.H. Harris, who later owned the Long Branch Saloon down the street.

Charles Rath's general store is in operation at the end of the block. Nearby are George Hoover's cigar store, John Tyler's Tonsorial Parlor and Morris Collar's dry goods store.

Farther down the boardwalk is Beatty & Kelley's Dodge City Restaurant where today's visitors can still get a meal or ice cream treats. Next door is the Museum's Western Chuckwagon Dinner, served every evening in the summer from 6:00 until 7:30 PM.

The Old House Saloon is used by Boot Hill Museum and other local organizations for special events and functions, including the Dodge City Repertory Company's dinner theater performance.

A printing shop, the "Front Street Times," is in this same building. Here visitors can watch an 1892 Golding press in operation, and talk to the printer as he produces a newspaper, posters and signs for the Museum and the public.

Boot Hill Museum has a variety of living history exhibits, including domestic servants at work in the Hardesty home. An 1880s medicine show is performed several times a day along the boardwalk.

The stage of the Long Branch Saloon comes to life with performances of the melodrama Fisherman's Paradise, performed daily along with a variety of musical entertainment.

Each evening "Miss Kitty" hosts the Long Branch Variety Show with Doc at the piano, the Long Branch Can-Can girls, and a wide variety of specialty acts, musical numbers and non-stop entertainment, preceded by a reenactment of a Dodge City gunfight. The 60-minute music and comedy show is regularly attended by tour groups.

Boot Hill Museum welcomes tour groups. There is plenty to see and do. Visitors can relive part of the past and have fun while learning more about the "wild west."

For information about Boot Hill Museum, contact the museum business office at (316) 227-8188, or write: Tour Coordinator, Boot Hill Museum, Front Street, Dodge City, KS 67801.

Parents Shouldn't Be Hampered By Fears

Parents who want to travel or dine first-class with their children should not be hampered by fears they will be ill at ease or unruly in elegant surroundings.

That's the advice of Antoine Corinthios, general manager of The Ritz-Carlton in Chicago and regional vice president of Four Seasons Hotels, which manages the hotel. He observes, "Children are more comfortable in strange surroundings when they know what's expected of them. With the right preparation, parents can make a visit to a fine hotel or restaurant a happy adventure."

Having seen a few mothers and fathers wincing in embarrassment as their exuberant offspring race unceremoniously through the lobby of the hotel, Corinthios offers the following tips for parents:

★ Set the scene well in advance. Inform your children that you will be staying in a hotel or dining in a restaurant where certain kinds of behavior are expected. Let them know that you are taking them along because you're proud of them and confident they will act appropriately.

★ Keep rules simple. For example, explain that the hotel lobby, elevators, and corridors are not for games or rowdyism. Make it clear that the room phone is not a toy; it cannot be played with.

★ Brush up on table manners beforehand. "Criticizing children on the scene in a restaurant can easily turn what could have been a pleasant experience into a battleground," Corinthios noted.

★ If you are traveling to a hotel, keep the children together in a group as you enter the lobby. This will discourage running around.

★ Abide by the hotel's rules for dress. If children are encouraged to dress up for dinner, it becomes more a special occasion.

★ If you go out to dine, leaving the children with a sitter, help them to make selections from the room service menu and place the order.

★ If you take your children to a fine restaurant, encourage them to "expand the palate" by trying something beyond the standard hamburgers or fried chicken.

Hilton Resort Brings New Vitality

The revitalization of the world-famous Fontainebleau Hilton has brought a new vitality to that premiere resort's food and beverage operation.

The hotel's $45 million renovation has created a variety of dining environments and menus designed to match the mood and palate of every guest.

"Few hotels in the world can boast such versatility in food, beverage and entertainment concepts," claims Arthur A. Surin, the hotel's general manager. Echoing this theme is Herb Rodriguez, catering director: "Our catered banquets and parties can be as wild and creative as our clients with everything from simple luncheons to elaborate banquets with white-gloved waiters in flambe' parades."

Typical of the resort's versatility is its party service, "Flings," featuring 13 party theme possibilities from a wonderfully decadent "La Dolce Vita" champagne breakfast on the beach (complete with fine china, elegant linens, crystal stemware, candelabra and a four-piece chamber music group) to a festive tropical "Goombay Island" night around the new rock grotto pool complete with fire dancers and 31 Caribbean musicians to entertain guests feasting on arroz con pollo, picadillo and the hotel's famous Lotita Colada beverage. Other parties include an elegant "Embassy Ball" for two or 3,002 in the hotel's Grand Ballroom; a "Bandolero Fiesta" with Mexican tacos, tortillas, chili and other Guadalajaran specialties. There is also a "Sunrise-Sunset Bar Mitzvah" reception complete with the Miami Beach Symphony and a fiddler on the roof to set a traditional mood.

"We are a community hotel, geared to multiple domestic and international markets," says Surin. "The key to our total food and beverage operation's success is our individuality of service, food and staff. It all comes together through experience, efficiency and our staff's determination to offer excellence with friendly courtesy."

The food and beverage staff, combined with the millions spent in renovating the hotel's dining facilities and kitchens, has created restaurants and lounges befitting the reputation of this world-famous hotel. The Dining Galleries, one of the top five in South Florida according to the Miami Magazine, is a special restaurant gently enhanced by soft lights, candelabra and the tasteful display of art treasures collected by the hotel during the last quarter century. Open for buffet lunch, dinner, and a sumptuous Sunday Brunch, the Main Gallery is an intimate setting of secluded tables, candlelight and a menu of continental as well as Florida specialties. The Cafe Promenade, a bit of Europe in the tropics, specializes in international coffees and succulent desserts, while the Gallery Lounge provides cocktails and hors d'oeuvres.

The Fontainebleau Hilton Steak House is a dark, cozy and intimate room that's wild at the same time—a fascinating mixture of art deco and contemporary design in infinite black and a stark white, with translucent nude mannequins frolicking in sexy abandon. The menu is back to basics: steak, chops, lobster, prime rib, and unusual veal T-bone and unique appetizers—all served in very big portions. The room's lower level is the Poodle Lounge, featuring continuous music and a young crowd whose dancing matches the frenzied postures of the mannequins in the upper level Steak House. One theme covers both rooms: slick art deco translated into hearty food and good times.

In the Garden Lobby Bar, guests who like to be "in the thick of things" can sip an apertif under a huge indoor ficus tree while observing the activity in one of America's most famous hotel lobbies.

On the lower level shopping arcade, Chez Bon Bon serves breakfast, lunch, dinner and a variety of ice cream specialties in an informal setting. Adjacent to Chez Bon Bon is La Favorita, a delightful indoor/outdoor cafe featuring family breakfast and dinner buffets with changing themes nightly.

Under The Trees is an outdoor cafe where luncheon guests are entertained by the lilting rhythms of a calypso band. The luncheon menu features shrimp, stone crabs, barbecued chicken, Florida fruit salads, tropical drinks and homemade coconut ice cream. For dinner, rotisserie specials include duck, lamb, chicken and veal. Friday night seafood buffet is a favorite with local seafood lovers.

Lounges and snack bars in the huge grotto pool area are like visiting a Caribbean port-of-call. The Beach Broiler serves Caribbean burgers with pineapple rings and luau sauce, Bratwurst, hot dogs and frozen yogurt. There's also "The Perfect Perrier Breakfast," a health menu with dried fruit and nuts, yogurt, fresh orange, grapefruit and carrot juices plus Perrier water.

From small private catered parties to huge convention banquets, with seven exciting restaurants and four lounges, the food and beverage department serves the equivalent of a small army of diners daily.

Vitality, variety and versatility are all hallmarks of the Fontainebleau Hilton's food and beverage service.†

Masterbath Helps You Get Physically Fit

Almost everyone wants to be tension-free and physically fit. That requires determination, discipline and "time-out" for relaxation. To achieve this, Kohler Co., the country's leading manufacturer of plumbing and leisure products, has developed a unique environmental enclosure that offers a peaceful, soothing haven.

"Sun, rain, sauna, steam, warm breezes, warm ambience and a whirlpool are available any time of the day and any season of the year in the new Kohler Masterbath," says Michael O'Malley, Kohler's Director of Marketing & Planning. "The Masterbath unit is designed for permanent installation in a home, apartment, hotel suite and other suitable locations. It's a compact, and very private, health spa and environmental escape for one or two people."

The 91-inch x 52-inch x 82-inch unit features four sun lamps to provide the sunshine and central heating for warm ambience. A cool spring-like rain, or warm tropical shower, falls evenly and softly throughout the entire enclosure. Sauna, steam, breezes, the whirlpool and other "climate" functions are all chosen via the touch-control panel located inside the environmental enclosure. A hand-held shower, with wall-mounted bracket is included.

"The Masterbath can easily fit into any lifestyle and enhances a daily routine of exercise and stress reduction," says O'Malley, "contributing to an overall sense of well-being."

Stress, for example, is a widely recognized problem in modern life that can and should be controlled. Experts say the emotional and physical stress can be partially reduced or controlled through a program of aerobics and jogging, for example, and relaxation techniques such as yoga and meditation.

"After a particularly hectic day, a person may seek a retreat to relax and reflect or to serve as an escape," adds O'Malley. "The Masterbath's functions such as sun, steam and rain can be set for various time lengths to comprise any sequence. A busy day can end nicely with a warm tropical rain shower followed by a 20 minute sauna, a cool gentle rain and a few minutes of warm breezes."

Alternatively, a jogger may want to soothe tired and sore muscles after a long run by enjoying a different Masterbath cycle: 15 minutes of whirlpool bath followed by 10 minutes of sun, a two minute cool shower, 5 minutes of steam and 20 minutes of warm ambience. The cycle can be changed for each use, or set to provide the same functions every time.

Baths Add Relaxation

In addition to the sun, steam, sauna and rain cycles, the Environment Masterbath and the Habitat Masterbath have the added relaxation of a spacious whirlpool bath with six adjustable whirlpool jets.

"For weary executives on the road, or honeymooners in search of a relaxing retreat, the Masterbath will serve as an attractive amenity to a hotel suite, too," says O'Malley.

"For homeowners," suggests Michael O'Malley, "a remodeling, renovation or new construction job provides an excellent opportunity to incorporate the Masterbath." The Masterbath is designed for efficient water and energy use and easy installation requiring 240 volt, 30 amp and 110-240 volt, 15 amp service for electrical power.

There are two Masterbath models: the Habitat™ Masterbath and the Environment™ Masterbath.

The Habitat Masterbath is available in 16 bold acrylic colors for the walls and fascia panel. The shower and plumbing controls and the control panel are chrome plated. The wooden deck over the whirlpool is made of cypress. A padded deck is optional.

Both units include two vinyl pillows and two speakers mounted at the top of the unit for hook-up to the owner's stereo receiver.

The Color Red Has Many Meanings

"Are you sure you want to do this?" the man asked. The woman stood looking around her, eyes wide with anxiety. She has been quite silent since entering the room. After a long pause, she responded, "It's too late to change my mind now. Let's get on with it."

At her words, the man stepped to the nearest wall, dipped his brush into a pot of primer paint and stroked the first swath of red onto the beige wall. She'd made a commitment to paint her entire 20-foot x 30-foot living room bright red. Shiny red. Emphatic, 600-square-feet-of-it, vivid, enamel red.

It had been her idea to begin with. Her decorator had said the room would look wonderful done in shades of beige and gray, but she'd wanted something more dramatic, more affirmative, a color to set off the beige furniture she'd bought before she'd settled on what she wanted the room to look like.

Three years later, she remembers the day the painter started. "I was so fearful of using that strong a color, but it really works. I'd never thought of red as a 'neutral,' but it pulls together a black background wall hanging, the Japanese screen, two tall bookcases filled with all shapes and colors of books, three different woods in the furniture and a foyer divider printed in beige, rose and green."

Although red is a "neutral" for her, it's difficult for most of us to think of that color that way, particularly given the varied associations that go along with red. One of the first that springs to mind is the red associated with Mars, the god of war. Aggressiveness seems to go with that image along with warriors eating red meat for energy...or, these days, athletes in training.

Another shade of meaning for red comes from color authority Faber Birren who describes it as "the color of extroversion" and, on the other down-side of his phrase, "manic depression." To balance his theory of expressive but thwarted energy, author Joan Kron in her new book, "Home Psych," quotes another color expert, Margaret Harmon, "Bright red" (particularly in the living room) "is associated with willingness to give in to other's wishes." So it seems red can be a part of our lives either to make a strong, energetic statement or to express compliancy, or so two different experts seem to believe.

Looking further, there's red as the attention-getter. Red flags indicate caution on a roadway or construction site. We experience a mega-blast of red pushing a cart down any supermarket aisle. The color is used by package-goods manufacturers to draw our eye to their particular product. And no accident there. They've spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in market research to confirm what most of us already know instinctively...red is an attention grabber.

That certainly holds true for fashion as well. A red dress simply doesn't need a provocative, plunging neckline. Demure will do since the color alone is sufficient to suggest the wearer is dressing for attention. In some cultures, though, a red dress means something else entirely. While American brides wear white, a Chinese bride dresses in traditional red, since for the Chinese, red is the color of joy, celebration and fertility.

Red is a standard part of our holiday color schemes; too. Red and green for Christmas, red-white-and-blue for the Fourth of July and the blizzard of red we see around us to signal Valentine's Day. Although this last is a saint's day, it started to be observed as the day on which lovers exchange "valentines" way back in the days of Chaucer and Shakespeare. The old notion was that birds first chose their mates on this day, so every February 14th in England and Scotland, each young bachelor and maid received by lot one of the opposite sex as his or her "valentine." It was a kind of a mock betrothal marked by the giving of gifts with St. Valentine's name being attached to the proceedings more by coincidence than significance. The heart-shaped messages and use of red as the heart's color evolved sometime later during the Victorian era.

These days, however, love and the color red have become an almost automatic connection in our minds. Revlon, the international cosmetics authority with several laboratories that specialize in creating new shades, even has a shade of lipstick and nail enamel called "Love that Red." It seems the Revlon color experts have always sparked to red as the shade they feel strongly about. The names they use to describe their reds appear to have been carefully chosen to represent the various moods the color can evoke. A spirit of adventure goes well with their "Daring Young Red" for example. "Million Dollar Red" has a nice sense of opulence to it, as does "Cadillac Red." A romantic mood is implied in "After Dark Red." And for sheer drama, it is hard to resist the appeal of their classic "Fire and Ice" or "Cherries in the Snow." Revlon seems so attuned to the many moods of red that they'd probably be willing to develop a "Leap Year Red" if enough women asked for it.

The first request might well come from that same woman who painted her living room bright red. Recently she's been seeing a new beau (an Aries, ruled by Mars equals red) who is already so comfortable in her living room that the relationship is moving along quite nicely. She doesn't want to overdo at this point, but feels a little underscoring on the cosmetic front wouldn't be amiss. So for Valentine's Day, she's painting things red again...this time her toenails...in "Years Ahead Red." †

HAPPY 20TH Anniversary
Herb and Jean Blasius,
May 21, 1986.
—62-21-105—

LAFFERTY In loving memory of Dan Lafferty who passed away on May 31, 1984. Dear Dan, may you always walk in sunshine. God's love around you glow. For the happiness you brought us no one will ever know. Our hearts still ache with loneliness. Our eyes shed many a tear. Only God alone knows how much we miss you every day of the year. Tis sad but true we wonder why, the best are always the first to die. We will love and miss you always.

NEXT WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) Just when some of you Lambs said bah to romance, someone special comes along to play a love song on your heart strings. Go ahead. Make the melody a duet.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) Love scores a bulls-eye for Taureans who thought they'd never make cow-eyes at anyone else again. This new relationship has great potential.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Friends may misunderstand your need to make some changes. Give them full explanations, but resist any suggestion that you delay making your moves.

Cancer (June 21-Jul. 20) A change of scenery could be the best medicine for those aching egos which were battered by some recent disappointments. Take a trip and return refreshed.

Leo (Jul. 21-Aug. 22) Money matters need attention. Since big bills belong on pelicans and flamingoes, not on the Lion's desk, resist the urge to splurge until accounts are paid.

Virgo (Aug. 22-Sept. 22) Plan summertime get-togethers with kith and kin. You'll create wonderful memories to keep you warm when winter sets in. Send out invitations now.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You can defuse a potentially panicky situation with your ability to create harmony out of chaos. You benefit by the changed attitudes of others.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Be careful when handling mechanical objects. This includes anything with a motor. A business matter requires more time for study. Don't rush into it.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Hidden weak spots could jeopardize important relationships. Find them and strengthen them. Weak spots also turn up in material things. Look for them.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Close up emotional gaps. This is a good time to get everyone together. A happy occasion encourages everyone to renew old relationships.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You're not alone. You're just way out ahead on the winning track. Eager allies will join up with you once you've crossed the finish line in triumph.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) A pesky health problem may recur. This time, don't wait so long to have it corrected. A family member seeks a long-delayed reconciliation. Be receptive.
